

ASK CONGRESS AID WATERWAYS

Development of River Urged at Meeting In Davenport

Muscatine's delegation of approximately 30 business and professional men who attended the convention of the Mississippi Valley association held in Davenport Friday, have returned with new ideas and enthusiasm for the development of the inland waterways as it affects the Mississippi valley.

Resolutions recommending that congress adopt a half billion dollar waterway program and steps to be taken to assure the 8-foot channel from St. Louis to Minneapolis be completed in five years, were passed. Members of the resolutions committee of which Col. C. Lambert of St. Paul is chairman, include G. M. Titus of this city, Hilleck W. Seaman of Clinton, John A. Resper of Dubuque and Burton F. Peck of Moline.

DAVENPORT, Ia. — (INS)—Mississippi Valley states Saturday are being held back through the power that eastern financial and transportation interests wield in their endeavors to hold "trade territory," according to speakers Friday at the waterway conference of the Mississippi Valley association here.

Escape through a waterway development from this economic bondage of the east was urged. Utmost strength of the middle-west must be used to effect a strong lobby in the next session of congress, the meeting agreed.

Brookhart Attacks Railroads
Senator Brookhart, (R) of Iowa, attacked railroads which are blamed for much of the opposition to the waterway development program, although declaring that they are "just a minor item" in the assets of the Mississippi valley.

Cleveland A. Newton of St. Louis declared that opposition to river development came from the "southern ports" in order to hold the trade territory for the eastern ports.

Conference After Channel
Devoting much of the means of bringing about a completion within five years of the upper river development that would result in a nine-foot channel from St. Louis to Minneapolis is the avowed purpose of the conference.

Grain exchanges who resented the entrance of the federal farm board into business are also fighting the waterway development on the grounds that the government is going into the waterway business, declared Newton.

P. RODGERS DIES; FUNERAL MONDAY

Funeral services for Peter Rodgers, 305 Monroe street, who died Friday evening at his home, will be held Monday at 9 a. m. from the St. Matthew church. Burial will be in St. Mary's cemetery.

Mr. Rodgers was born in Davenport in February, 1889 but had lived in this city practically his entire life. He was married to Miss Mary Dowd on Feb. 2, 1914 who survives him as do two children, Nicholas of Olweim, Ia., and Mildred Johnson of Crawfordville, Mo.

The body was taken from the Meyers funeral home to the family residence Saturday afternoon.

Rank of Knight Is Conferred by Local Lodge of Pythians

A degree team of Wyoming lodge No. 76, Knights of Pythias, conferred the rank of knight in full form at a meeting of the lodge in Pythian hall Friday night. Delegations from other lodges, including Columbus Junction, Chicago and Davenport, were present.

Plans for the seventh district speakers' bureau meeting with Ivanhoe lodge of Clinton were made. The event is scheduled to take place Monday, July 6, Frank Eile of Marengo, grand chancellor and Robert Hibbs, also of Marengo, past grand chancellor of the Iowa domain will be present.

The rank of knight will be conferred on a class of candidates by a special picked team of the D. O. K. K. order which will include several local men.

Home Leader for Farm Women to Be Selected June 27

A new home demonstration agent to succeed Mrs. Grace Rylander, resigned, will be selected when the board of directors of the Muscatine County Farm Bureau meets next Saturday afternoon, June 27, at the court house.

A number of applications for the position are already on file and will come before the board members for consideration. Mrs. Rylander, who was recently married, will complete her work here on Sept. 1.

St. John Will Is Admitted, Husband Made Beneficiary

The will of Mrs. Agnes St. John, which was admitted Saturday to probate on filing, leaves her entire estate to her husband, J. H. St. John for his lifetime, and then provides for its division among their children. Heirs of the deceased waived notice of the hearing.

Under the terms of the will, the First National bank was named as administrator with the will annexed, and the bond set at $2,000. E. S. Jackson is attorney for the estate.

Midwest Free Press Plans Excursion to Davenport July 6

An opportunity to view the beauties of nature and secure relief from the heat of the city, will be offered residents of Muscatine and vicinity Monday, July 6 when the palatial steamer Capitol, pictured above, carries an excursion crowd to Davenport under the sponsorship of the Midwest Free Press. In the evening the steamer will make a moonlight trip. The boat will leave Muscatine at 9 a. m. on the all day excursion, returning about 6:30 p. m. This will allow excursionists to spend about two hours in Davenport. The evening trip will commence at 8:30 p. m. and the boat will again dock at 11:30 p. m. A fare of 50 cents will be charged for adults on the all day excursion and 35 cents for children. Fares for the moonlight trip will be 75 cents for adults and 35 cents for children.

Parents Watch as Friends Drag River for Their Son

By LOUIS FITZGERALD

Sixty hours have elapsed since the clothing of John Tobias, 12-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Tobias, 212 Green street, was discovered on the river bank near Musser park and still no trace of the missing lad has been found. Two days and three nights have gone by, filled with agonizing suspense for the parents who have kept constant vigil while boats of various descriptions hauled drags in an effort to locate the body of the missing youth.

Slowly, but none the less steadily the boats move across the water. In the daytime the stream is bright and sparkling—at night dark and forbidding, and beneath the resistless waters the dead body is believed to lie. There is something remorseless and relentless in the movements of the boats and a feeling of helplessness comes over the spectator as it is realized the end of the search is the dead body of a 12-year-old lad, once the pride of a mother's heart.

Faithful friends of the family have kept up the long search, all through the weary hours of the day and night, dragging the river's bed a distance of 12 miles, from the upper end of Musser park to below Port Lousia. They are dragging the river bed with fish hooks of barbed steel.

The men work in shifts and the boats are in constant motion. When one crew is completely exhausted by their labors they lie down upon the river bank for a few hours of fitful sleep. Others take their places in the boats and the efforts to raise John Tobias from a watery grave continue.

Nor is it the men only who show their sympathy to the bereaved parents by their long and faithful toil. Women of the neighborhood serve sandwiches and coffee to the searchers and attempt to cheer them on by words of encouragement. It is a time when human feeling and understanding reach out blindly to the aid of stricken members of the race.

And the parents, wearied in body by the long hours of wakefulness and in mind by the racking suspense, tell themselves and friends over and over again there is no use in believing their son alive, in an effort to down the hope that will not die. Dimly they realize a time must come when the lifeless form of their son—flesh and blood of their own bodies—is brought to the surface, but they are human and within their souls hope whispers that somehow, somewhere, he may still be alive.

But with the passing hours comes news that other youths saw their sons enter the water, sink beneath the surface and not come up again.

Ralph Habin, 108 East Ninth street and Donald Lane, 500 West Sixth street, are the witnesses. They tell of going into the river to swim and of the Tobias boy stepping into a deep hole; of how they attempted to save the drowning youth and how their efforts were unavailing.

Young Lane had been swimming in the vicinity before and was aware of the hole he told police late Friday afternoon. Despite his warning the Tobias boy who was unable to swim, found himself in deep water. The Lane youth, managing to reach him, struggled as he would but slipped nearer and nearer the same deep hole. He released his hold and rushed to the bank for a stick or rope and as he turned again towards the river, saw a pair of upturned arms sink beneath the surface.

That was the last anyone has seen of his companion and what was intended for an innocent childhood lark, resulted in stark tragedy. A mother, her eyes heavy with weeping and sleeplessness, keeps constant vigil on the river bank while searchers drag the river bed.

Commerce Body to Study Complaint About Gravel Pit

A complaint from local residents to the highway commission that the gravel pit closely adjoining highway No. 61 on Muscatine island, and jointly owned by the city and county, constitutes a menace, will probably be referred to the Chamber of Commerce at its meeting next Friday.

The matter was referred to Carl Riese, member of the state highway commission, who directed the state engineers to make an investigation. It is claimed that the gravel pit, which is deep, is up to the edge of the paving and is a menace to traffic on the highway. There is no guard rail or warning signal, it is asserted.

Miss Hattie Parker, 620 East Sixth street, returned Saturday from an eastern trip which included visits to Washington, D. C., Annapolis, Md., and Harrisburg, Pa. She left here last Sunday.

Roy L. Fairbanks of the Fairbanks home for funerals, has returned following a two week's trip through the east, made primarily for the purpose of inspecting funeral homes in that district with a view of ascertaining what methods and arrangements are used there which might be practicable here. Pittsburgh, Philadelphia, Washington and Cincinnati are among the cities he visited.

FREE PRESS TO GIVE EXCURSION

Capitol Engaged for Opening Trip of The Season

Two excursion trips on the Steamer Capitol, one to Davenport, will be sponsored by the Midwest Free Press Monday, July 6. On its trip to Davenport the boat will leave Muscatine at 9 a. m. It will return about 6:30 p. m. giving passengers about two hours in Davenport.

In the evening the boat will leave at 8:30 p. m. for a moonlight excursion trip, returning about 11:30 p. m. Sidney's Southern Syncopators will furnish the music for both trips.

This will be the first excursion of the season on the palatial Steamer Capitol. During July and August the boat will ply the Mississippi river from Louisiana, Mo., to St. Paul, Minn., taking excursions out of each river city. Captain Roy Streckfus will again be in charge of operations this year with Captain C. McGee as master; Johnny Pemberton, chief engineer; Captains Blair and Hunter, pilots and Anna Goulding, purser.

A relief from work in the hot city and an opportunity to view the beauties of nature along the "Father of Waters," is offered in an all-day excursion. The size of the Steamer Capitol and its well arranged lounging, decks, cabins, dance saloon, cafeteria and lunch rooms assure ease for all its passengers.

The fare for the all-day excursion will be 50 cents for adults and 35 cents for children. For the moonlight trip the fares will be 75 cents for adults and 35 cents for children.

Three Sentenced To Serve 7 Days For Intoxication

Peck Cooksey, B. Van Brog and C. Danmer were each sentenced to serve seven days in the county jail when they appeared before Justice J. C. Coster Saturday afternoon on charges of intoxication. They were arrested by the police on East Front street, Saturday morning at 11 o'clock.

Explain to Others
"Get the other fellow into your meetings," he urged. "Explain your side of the story to him and there is not a fair-minded person in the world who will not change his opinion if you can show him he is in the wrong. If you can explain to the man in the other camp where he is wrong, and he is at all fair-minded he will say, 'that's so, I never thought of it in that light before.'"

Baker Urges Farmers Aid Railroads in Talk Friday

Mr. Baker denounced the compulsory bovine T. B. test law and declared that when state veterinarians had completed testing the cattle they would commence the same tactics on the farmers' hogs. He said, "I, like the farmers, am not objecting to the testing of cattle for T. B. but I object to the state fostering upon stock farmers, an unfair, unreliable test that is not infallible. Test the milk, that is the only way, and it costs less besides it gives the public safety. With the tuberculin test, a cow may pass perfect and still give T. B. milk. Therefore, what protection is it to the public? It is squandering the taxpayers' money."

The speaker told of the fight which has been waged against the Baker hospital by the same "medical gang," and told his hearers that this group seeks only profit and is not interested in providing clean milk from the cows.

"I am one of these fellows," Mr. Baker said, "who do not believe that tubercular germs can be transmitted from a cow to a human being. Animals and mankind were never meant to be alike. Veterinarians will admit that the test as now being made will not insure that tubercular germs are not in the milk. They say it is good enough for general purposes, but are not certain. General purposes means general."

"How can you explain your stand to those members of other organizations if you do not invite them to your meetings? If you announce your meeting as being held by the Protective Association, the farm bureau and the farm union members will think they are not wanted and stay away. A meeting of the Farm union carries the impression that farm bureau members and those belonging to the Protective association are not invited."

Mr. Baker declared that until the farmers band together in one organization they will never get those things for which they are fighting. "Whenever you farmers hold a meeting," he urged, "do not advertise that it is a Protective Association meeting, a farm union meeting or a farm bureau gathering. Advertise it as a farmers' community meeting and get the other fellow in with you."

FIRE DESTROYS ROAD SCRAPERS

Two County Machines Burned in $6,600 Fire Saturday

road maintainers, the county lost several barrels of oil, a miscellaneous assortment of axes, spades, wrenches and tools and other equipment used in road work, and a stove that is used in the winter to provide warmth in the shed.

County Engineer F. P. G. Hall-fass stated Saturday night that the loss of the shed was small as compared to the value of their machines. He estimated that to replace the machines and other equipment lost in the fire would entail an expenditure of $6,600.

One of the machines, an Austin, was purchased in 1920, and the other, a Gilbert, was acquired by the county in 1929. They were used in road maintenance work in Seventy-Six, Cedar, Orono and Lake townships.

County Auditor Kenneth Coder was notified Saturday night of the fire loss and he stated that both of the maintainers are fully insured, and that practically the only loss would be the shed and miscellaneous equipment.

LOUIS SALEK NOW GUARDIAN OVER ESTATE

Another Chapter Is Written in Long Controversy

Another chapter in the long and bitter controversy between Louis Salek and the First National Bank over the guardianship of Salek's minor son, Chester, was written Saturday when E. F. Richman filed a recommitment from the bank for the assets of the boy's estate. Salek is now his son's guardian. The documents refer to various records which disclose an interesting case.

On June 13, notice of appeal was filed by the father on behalf of the boy from the rulings of Judge A. F. Barker on the objection to the final report of the guardian bank. This would indicate that Salek intends to take the matter before the state's highest court.

The amount involved in the controversy is small but the efforts of Salek to question the conduct of the estate by the bank have resulted in the filing of voluminous documents and a number of court opinions.

The estate began in 1921 when Chester Louis Salek inherited a comparatively small amount of money from his grandmother, some time later Chester's mother died and he inherited a third interest in the homestead. This homestead was sold and a distribution made several years ago. Louis Salek, the father, had a two-thirds interest in the proceeds of the sale. Chester's interest was the remaining one-third.

It seems that an incumbrance on the homestead was paid out of the proceeds of the father's share and none deducted from the share of the boy.

Seeks Correction
In October 1930, Louis Salek sought a new audit to correct the distribution, claiming a portion of the money had been paid to him as the property of Chester, then in the hands of the bank as guardian. The bank contested the claim and Judge W. R. Mason found the distribution incorrect and ordered the bank, as guardian of the boy, to pay over a portion of the money in its hands.

On December 20, 1930, Chester requested the court to appoint his father, Louis Salek as his guardian in place of the First National bank the boy having reached the age of 14 years.

On January 19, 1931, the First National bank filed a report as guardian of Chester Salek and tendered its resignation as such guardian to the court. It was following the filing of this report that the interesting features of the case developed. On February 10, 1931, the bank filed an amendment to its report in which it set out that it had given the boy's estate credit for but 5 per cent interest on a mortgage loan whereas it should have credited the estate with six and one-half per cent interest on that it was therefore in possession of $76.50 more than the former report had shown.

Objections Filed
On April 4, 1931, Louis Salek, as the boy's father and next friend, filed objections to the report of the bank and an application for a new accounting. The objections included complaints against the bank buying a $1,000 note from itself for the boy's estate and allowing the estate only 5 per cent interest instead of 6 1/2 per cent as shown by the note. Interest on this discrepancy was asked and payment of certain attorneys fees and other charges were questioned including overpayment of bond premiums.

A second amendment to the guardian's report was filed April 29, in which it was explained that it had been the custom of the First Trust & Savings bank, predecessor of the First National as guardian, to sell mortgage loans to customers, reserving to itself a part of the interest paid on such loans as commission and that the Ouska loan had been sold to the estate to net 5 per cent but that, when objection was made to this practice in connection with this estate, the bank had charged itself with the excess interest, $76.50. Explanation was also made as to the overcharging the estate for bond premiums and other matters were set out.

Judge Barker Rules
Judge A. P. Barker, on April 30, 1931, filed a lengthy written opinion in which he showed that the guardian bank had shown its willingness to rectify mistakes. He overruled objections of the elder Salek, on his son's behalf to various matters and sanctioned the new guardian that he could not expend any money from the estate without first securing an order from the court. The opinion and order also adjusted other differences between the parties in the form of attorneys' fees and bond premiums.

Attorneys E. F. Richman and M. W. Stanleton, on May 14, 1931, re-opened the controversy by filing an application asking the court to correct alleged errors in the opinion filed April 30. This document pointed out that the First National bank should have been charged interest on the difference between the 5 per cent it had paid the estate on the Ouska loan and the 6 1/2 per cent the loan bore, and interest on the excess premiums paid by the estate on bonds. It also asked that the costs of the matter of the objections be taxed to the guardian instead of the estate.

A supplemental order was signed by Judge Barker May 21, and another written opinion filed. This order charged the guardian bank with eighty cents interest on the Ouska differences, $2.52 interest on excess bond premiums and charged the guardian with the costs of the hearing of the objections, holding the filing of the objections was justified.

FREE PRESS REWARDS BIG Winner to Make $900 Per Month for Next Two Months

If you were approached with a proposition whereby you stood to make $900 per month or $1800 during the next two months, you would stop short and think, wouldn't you? It doesn't make any difference as to your present position. The bigger you are the more you will think. You would hear the proposition. You would consider it. Of course you would. Right now in these times, when men are thinking of the necessity for getting money, when men are trying hard to increase their incomes $1800 is a sum to be desired no matter who you are.

The Midwest Free Press $10,000 distribution campaign is just starting. It has been slow. There is plenty of room for many more real active candidates. There should be more persons entering who have an idea of how big $1800 really is these days.

Not Really Underway
The Midwest Free Press campaign is big enough to interest the very biggest men and women in Muscatine and this territory.

The few candidates who have entered so far have not produced many subscriptions. Promises which do not produce votes and which do not win seem to be more plentiful than subscriptions to date. Votes win, and votes alone will win. In this effort one counts his chicks after they are hatched and not the number of eggs that are put under the hen.

Consider this as you would any good business proposition. Outline your course of action—then go out and put it over. Are you big enough? Have you ability enough?

Now Is Time to Act
Of course, you can accomplish nothing towards sharing in the grand gift distribution until you get started. So it is very important that you cut out the nomination coupon in this issue and send or bring it in immediately. Once started, if you are the ambitious sort, you will become the possessor of the kind of enthusiasm that will lead you to greater things—enthusiasm that should make one of the big prizes yours.

Nearly every candidate will say, "Oh, I may try, but I know that I can't win," all seem to be of about the same opinion. But the man or woman, boy or girl which first decides that he or she is going to win and has the confidence to do his or her very best is likely to be proclaimed among the winners of the very biggest prizes.

More Votes Given Now
Understand, too that more votes are given now for subscriptions than at the end of the campaign. This is done in fairness to the ones that get out and hustle at the start and will not allow anyone to step in at the last minute and win.

Read the announcement of the campaign and start today. Bear in mind that every active participant who does not land one of the big prizes will be paid in cash for his or her efforts.

The entire campaign is so extremely short in its duration that an early start is imperative to those who desire the larger prizes.

If you have not yet done so and wish to share in the greatest distribution of gifts ever made in this vicinity, RUSH YOUR NOMINATION COUPON to the campaign headquarters of The Midwest Free Press. DO IT NOW.

Now Mr. Cowles Would Like to Be Heard - Seeks Radio Permit

The Des Moines Register and Tribune is trying to get on the air. The Capitol city newspaper is not coming right out and informing the public about its aims and ambitions but is applying to the federal radio commission for a construction permit under the name of Iowa Broadcasting company.

Don't Like Chains?
Scanning the application for a good reason why the federal radio commission should grant this permit, the following reason appears. "Des Moines is at present served by only one station; there is acute need for additional broadcasting facilities both from point of view of giving listener a choice of programs and more diversified service and from point of view of civic, educational, religious, agricultural and governmental organizations, and of local advertisers, who need such facilities."

Home of WHO
That the Register feels Des Moines needs radio facilities in addition to WHO, the chain station, is surprising to local residents who have just been told by the radio commission that Muscatine doesn't need a radio station because the people here can listen to WOC, 28 miles away, and Shennandoah, about two hundred miles away. Investigation would reveal that Iowa already has more radio facilities than the commission says it is entitled to but the Register is not entitled to its desire to investigate things—as witness and attitude of Gardner Cowles who refused a challenge to earn $5,000 if he would investigate the Baker hospital.

Local People Wonder
Local people are watching the efforts of the Register to get a license with a great deal of interest. Among the other reasons advanced by the Register for having a station is that the local advertisers need the facilities. In view of the fact that the Register already has a practical monopoly on newspaper advertising facilities in Des Moines, there may be some element of truth in its position that the Des Moines business men need some relief in the way of additional facilities.

Watching Commission
Action of the commission on the Register's application is being awaited with interest by local business people who have just been denied radio facilities by the national radio bosses. As one local man expressed it yesterday, "If the commission gives the Des Moines Register a station when there is already one in Des Moines, it will be very evident that powerful interests can get things at Washington which small communities and farmers are denied."

CHURCHES PLAN PARK SERVICES

Ministers Announce Band Will Aid in Summer Series

Union services for the city will be conducted every Sunday evening at Weed park beginning July 5 and closing Aug. 30, it was announced Saturday. These services will be from 7 to 8 o'clock, with the first half hour devoted to the singing of gospel hymns. Accompaniment will be given by the Muscatine Concert band, which will present a special number each evening.

The committee on arrangements has recommended that a similar service be held in the downtown district, providing there are enough requests for such a service.

The schedule for the ministers who will speak follows:

July 5, Rev. C. E. Ward, pastor of the Park Avenue M. E. church, leader of devotion; Rev. Vernon L. Shontz, pastor of the First Baptist church, leader of the gospel song service; Rev. J. B. Randall, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, preacher of the sermon.

July 12, Rev. Tom Fogelson, pastor of the First Christian church, leader of devotion; Glenn McCullough, song leader; Rev. Vernon L. Shontz, preacher of the sermon.

July 19, Rev. Landis, pastor of the Church of the Brethren, leader of devotion; Rev. Lack of New Era, song leader; Rev. W. H. Slack of the Muscatine M. E. church, preacher of the sermon.

July 26, Rev. Richard, pastor of the Nazarene church, leader of devotion; Rev. C. W. Homestead, pastor of the Mulford Congregational church, preacher of the sermon.

August 2, Rev. Jeschke, pastor of Evangelical Protestant church, leader of devotion; Rev. R. W. Merrifield, song leader; Rev. Ben Schwartz, pastor of the First M. E. church, preacher of the sermon.

August 9, Rev. W. H. Schwieler, pastor of the Cedar Street M. E. church, leader of devotion; Rev. R. W. Merrifield, pastor of the First Congregational church, preacher of the sermon.

CARNIVAL WILL ARRIVE TODAY

Youths Eagerly Await Arrival of Royal American Shows

Today will long be remembered by Muscatine's youngsters, for the Royal American shows, rated as "America's foremost amusement enterprise," will arrive at about 11 a. m., over the Rock Island lines. Appearing under auspices of Edward H. Biltzer post, American Legion, and the Muscatine Power Boat club, the carnival will open a week's engagement on the river front near the park, Monday. It is the first show of its kind to appear here this season.

Immediately upon arrival of the two all-steel trains the work of unloading the many attractions and rides will commence; the "Amble of the many show horses" will once more be heard and in a few hours the tented city will arise, all ready for the opening crowds Monday afternoon.

Ever since Berny J. Smuckler, advance representative and a score of billposters arrived, interest has been growing in the coming engagement of the Royal American shows. The carnival, which a few years ago, was a small group of traveling thespians, has now grown to the second largest show of its kind.

In speaking of the phenomenal success gained by the show Messrs. Sedmyr and Velare, owners and managers, claim clean methods employed at all times.

"Never," says Sedmyr, "have we ever permitted an objectionable feature to be connected with our entertainment. We have made it our particular aim to cater to the amusement of children, just wholesome fun for all. With the host of friends that our show has made throughout this country and Canada, we find we are always welcome to bring our show back to town year after year."

A partial list of the attractions brought to town by the Royal American shows is the Monkey Circus, the St. Louis Folies, Hawaiian, Coney Island Side show, Freak Animal show, Wax Wonder show, Buggy Ride, Trails End, the Leaping Lena, Whip, Catapult, Lindy Loop, Carousel, Twin Ferris wheel and many other features and thrill providers.

DISTRICT COURT

The report of Fred Garrison, administrator of the estate of Sarah Ida Chambers, showing the sale of part of lot 1, block 8, North Muscatine, to Harry E. Bowman for $1,700, in accordance with a court order issued on June 12, was approved by the court Saturday. The lot was appraised at $1,500.

The First National bank, administrator of the estate of Emma V. Briggs was given authority in a court order to buy a small tomb stone at a price not exceeding $50.

The M. & W. Chevrolet company entered suit Saturday against Harry Wollett for $123.82 claiming the sum is due for work and merchandise. Attorneys Hanley and Hanley represent the plaintiff.

Records were filed Saturday of the hearing of the suit of C. P. Gunzenhauser against Frank R. and William Wendland in which the plaintiff was seeking judgment for $57 and costs of $5.20, the case having been appealed to the district court. Gunzenhauser asked for damages as result of an automobile collision with a car driven by Wendland, Oct. 30, on West Eighth street. The case was heard by Justice H. D. Horst on June 12. J. E. Devitt is attorney for the plaintiff and Lewis C. Clark represents the defendant.

The suit of Sam Morehead against George and Margaret Black and H. H. Zimmerman, regarding the driveway between the Black and Morehead properties, was dismissed Saturday as to Zimmerman. Attorneys Drake and Wilson represent the plaintiff.

An order appointing Willis B. King as guardian of Loquessa Bentley, was signed by Judge D. V. Jackson in district court Saturday afternoon on the application of Marshall Nye, and the bond of the guardian fixed at $18,000. The petition claimed that the defendant is unable to care for her property because of her advanced age. Attorney R. G. Tipton appeared as guardian ad litem and Attorney G. Albee represented the plaintiff.

URGE NEW "BLUE LAWS"
TALLAHASSEE Fla. — (INS) — Florida winter playground of society's elite would be transformed into a "Blue Sunday" state under terms of a bill introduced in the legislature here. Even Florida's famous beaches would be bare and deserted on Sunday, under provisions of the bill. Operation of bathing beaches, fishing, hunting, golfing, and even dancing would be taboo.

Large Group of Local Girls to Leave for Camp

Mrs. O. L. Peck will chaperone a group of 22 girls of the Y. W. C. A. to the Archie Allen camp near Port Byron, Ill., leaving Muscatine at 8 o'clock Monday morning. The camp is for girls and is under the supervision of the Rock Island Y. W. C. A. Local girls will provide their own transportation, but will leave the "Y" in a group.

After a five day encampment the girls will return Saturday afternoon. On Wednesday afternoon visitors will be allowed at the camp. Miss Lucy Milligan announces that typical camping rules will be followed and visitors are not permitted to bring food of any kind to the campers.

Those planning to leave Monday are: Ann Sickman, Loretta Mills, Alda Mae Spith, Lola Polson, Mary Eida Stein, Virginia Mohsen, Charlotte Braun, Frances Highberger, Ellena Demarest, Helen Toyn, Pauline Horst, Betty Lue, Jean Van Dyke, Twyla Schreurs, Gloria Peck, Wilma Kaurs, Ann Stein, Mary Jane Van Dyke, Josephine Bloomer, Irene Barry, Margaret Schwertfeger and Patricia Tipton.

Rambling Round With Mary

It positively takes an optimist to go shopping these warm days but if the right complex hits you many of your hot weather problems are solved. Cool, washable frocks for service and beauty plus are brand new at the store. Honestly gals we've got to keep up appearances and we will keep our wiles if we get a smart warm-weather dress that looks cute even when it's wilted.

Have you all seen the darling linen beach sandals at Wilson's. The clever feature is this—they are plenty chic for office wear and otherwise. Colors to match the ensemble may be had for the asking.

Will Marry

Miss Dorothy Lamprose of East Moline, Ill., will marry Paul Karpelson of this city this afternoon at 3 o'clock. A number of local people are planning to drive to East Moline to attend the ceremony.

Beach Trousers Taking Honors For Smartness

By ALICE LANGELEIR
PARIS (INS)—Beach trousers beat everything when it comes to summer chic. They are really taking all the honors of the beach ensemble which very often consists of little more than the trousers.

Something very new is Bruyere's "Harpoon," with trousers made of pure white wool shantung and trimmed with padded galls about the knees. The trousers are in vivid yellow, green and black, and the trousers are fastened by a wrap-around closing in front, buttoning under the roll belt. A short shantung cape is worn about the shoulder to protect one from sunburn.

Like nearly all of the pyjama costumes this season, this one consists of trousers only, worn over a black bathing-suit which is very short, but very sweet as well, especially for anyone in need of footgear. The trousers make a smart one-piece-pyjama dress of red-dotted shantung, with the blouse cut to an evening decollete, a rather high V in the front and very deep in the back. The trousers reach to about five inches below the knees and are slightly flared by circular cutting below the fitted hip-yoke. A red-spotted kerchief of shantung ties the dress and is worn gypsy-like about the neck.

One of the designers makes knitted trousers alone to go over bathing-suits of all kinds.

Another one adds a short, bolero jacket with long sleeves and still another has knitted over-kits even shorter than any Highland kiltie ever worn.

Lucient LeLong is making a clever one-piece pyjama suit with long trousers and an all-over front for a bolero. Jean Repply cuts her trousers like those the brawny sailor wears and another beach ensemble adopts the white linen tailored suits. A sash and hat in bright red are made of fringed jersey.

F. Gunnels, Willing Workers class; Song by school, God Has Been Good to You.

Special Father's day services will be held Sunday morning at 10:45 at the Presbyterian church. The theme for the morning is "Faith of Our Fathers."

A wedding of interest to Wapello people took place at Chicago Thursday at 4 p. m. when Mr. P. Leon Bettler of Wapello who has been attending the college of Medicine at Iowa City, and Miss Ruth Allison of Iowa City, who attended Graceland college, were united in marriage by the Rev. Walter Henry Nugent at the Austin Presbyterian church at Chicago. They were attended by Miss Sue Chase of Iowa City and Virgil Cover of Wapello. Other witnesses present at the wedding were Mr. Cecil Siebert of Iowa City and Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Gunnels of Oak Park, Illinois. The ceremony was followed by a dinner at the O. F. Gunnels home at 2610 North Austin boulevard, Oak Park, Illinois. The couple then left on a wedding trip to Taberville, Missouri. The groom was a graduate of the Wapello high school in the class of 1926.

The Thursday club held their regular meeting Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Harry Limbocker. Special guests were Mrs. Olive Sherman, Columbus Junction, and Mrs. E. M. Stewart. Virgil Cover arrived home Friday from Chicago where he has been attending Northwestern university, having received his masters degree Monday.

Miss Helen Louise Cook, daughter of Mrs. Marie Cook, Oakville, and Leon H. Rose, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Rose, 401 Argyle street, Des Moines, were united in marriage at the First Presbyterian church in Des Moines Wednesday by Dr. Thomas R. Niven. Mr. and Mrs. W. Cook of Iowa City, and George Thran of Pontiac, Mich., were the attendants. A wedding luncheon was served in the gold room of the First Presbyterian immediately following the ceremony at which eighteen guests were present. Mr. and Mrs. Rose left by motor on wedding trip through the Black Hills, Yellowstone park and other western points before returning to Waterloo, where they will be at home after July 15, at 148 Summit avenue. The out-of-town guests were: Mrs. Mamie Cook of Oakville, Mr. and Mrs. Walter W. Cook of Iowa City, George Thran of Pontiac, Mich., and Mrs. Walter Wade of Dubuque. Mrs. Rose received her B. A. degree from Iowa State Teachers' college in 1926 where she was a member of Phi Omega Pi sorority. She has taught the past three years in East Junior high, Waterloo. For the past ten years Mr. Rose has been associated with Rose's Barber and Beauty Supply company of which he is vice president and secretary.

The Harrison Missionary society will meet next Thursday afternoon, June 25, in the home of Mrs. Marie Schaefer.

Mr. and Mrs. Will Paul entertained a number of friends Wednesday evening with John Kennedy, of Burchard, Neb., as guest of honor.

The members of chapter G. Tri-T held their regular meeting Tuesday evening in the home of Mrs. Mildred Dehl, with Mrs. Dehl and Mrs. Marguerite Allen as hostesses. The event was featured with the annual election of officers with the following results: Mrs. Mildred Hook, president; Mrs. Mildred Winter, vice president; Mrs. Margaret Hinderman, secretary; Mrs. Gladys Hammond, treasurer; Mrs. Audrey Huddle, librarian. The next meeting will be a family picnic at

The CLUE of the SCARLET RIBBON

SYNOPSIS: Because of her love for Barry Crox, a famous movie star, Charles Linton, is innocently ensnared in one of Hollywood's most thrilling mystery dramas. The death of a closely connected with the case has caused her life, and she tells the true reason for the first time: Thornton Trainbridge, a young newspaper man, is trying to prove his innocence. Among the suspects are Jim Conklin, Barry's chauffeur; Florence Williams, movie star, who had an appointment with Barry on the night he was killed; Charles, her brother, a drug addict; Aunt Kate, who knows more about it than she will admit; Pierre Caston, head of the dope ring to which Barry belonged; Sam Helwig, Caston's henchman; and the man of mystery, is found in a furnished room—murdered. Thornton takes me away from the house, fearing that Caston will kill me. Later we return at night, and discover a suit of clothes hidden in the storeroom closet. The only person I can think of who might have used them is Aunt Kate! Thornton tells me Aunt Kate has left Hollywood, but he will not tell me where. He is worried about the scarlet ribbon, and I remember that Florence Williams told me she had taken it from Helwig. He calls her a liar!

SOMETIMES wonder if great mysteries don't solve themselves. An individual or individuals working to get to the bottom of some mystery might assist in directing events to an end when they will expose themselves, but I doubt if there are very many cases where an individual, at the very start of the mystery, places his hand on some little thing and solves a crime.

I am not speaking of fiction stories. I am talking about real mysteries and real life. A person commits a murder. It is planned beforehand. Every possible clue is covered. The first days after the murder the police go around in the dark, trying to gather together enough threads of the case to tell them what really happened. When they find this out, they are able to draw a fairly good picture of the crime. But if the criminal doesn't make a mistake, they never catch him. So because of this I believe that mysteries, more or less, solve themselves in the natural order of human events. At least that is the case of the murder of Barry Crox. This murder was contemplated for weeks before it was committed. It was an airtight mystery. There was a clue, but the clue was useless without some other evidence to connect with the person. The clue would never have led us to the solution if the person had not made one fatal move. We know now when that fatal move was made. We know that this move caused many other moves to follow. We know that the clue was through these attempts that the solution was finally discovered. I believe that the clue was through these attempts that the solution was finally discovered. I believe that the clue was through these attempts that the solution was finally discovered.

the country home of Mrs. Mildred Hook, July 21. Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Miller and Catherine Minor are leaving this week-end on a fishing trip to the lakes of Minnesota.

C. A. Lofgren and son, Billie, G. W. Graham and nephew, John Walte, left today on a fishing trip to Esquagama Lake, near Atkins, Minn.

Mrs. Harry Weyant and daughter left Thursday for their home at Des Moines after a pleasant visit with her mother, Mrs. M. C. Holck and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Westerman and two children of LaCrosse, Minn., are here for a visit in the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lou Westerman.

Mrs. Josephine Clites, Mrs. Harold Peterson and children, Duane, Gordon, Maurine, Janet and James, arrived from Red Oak Wednesday for a visit with their daughter and sister, Mrs. W. Baker.

Mrs. Eva Allensworth, formerly of Wapello, is recovering from a severe attack of blood poisoning in St. Luke's hospital in Davenport. She had infection in her foot and it was necessary to amputate three toes to save her life. She is a sister of Mrs. Robertson of Wapello.

Twelve members of the Swastika club were present at the regular meeting held at the home of Mrs. Joseph Schmeiser Thursday afternoon.

Funeral services were held Wednesday afternoon at the Everett Woodruff home for Mrs. C. A. Woodruff, aged 69, a lifelong resident of this vicinity, who died at the home of her son, Everett Woodruff, at Des Moines, Iowa, Aug. 22, 1861. She was married to Charles A. the suit in the closet. If Aunt Kate had kept there, when did she do it and why? Her room was next door. There was no one sleeping in that spare room.

Suddenly I remembered about the piece of note I had found in her bureau drawer. It was not Aunt Kate's handwriting. Whose was it? I tried to recall Florence's handwriting, but I couldn't associate it with the delicate feminine printing on the note.

The more I thought about the whole thing, the more restless I became. I wondered why Thornton did not call. I got nervous and lumpy. At 4 o'clock I could stand it no longer and I left the house for the intention of going back to my home. I wanted to look at that spare room again. I wanted to see if I could find something there that would tell the story of who slept in that bed.

But I didn't get very far. Thornton drove up to the curb just as I was leaving the house.

"Taking a little walk?" he said, jumping out of the car.

"Yes, I can't stand being alone any longer."

"You're not using very good sense walking out here this way. You know that Mr. Caston is still looking for you."

"I don't care who is looking for me. I'm going to get some air and freedom."

"I got in the car and Thornton drove away."

Being better being in a car than walking around alone, he said.

"Your friend Caston is still looking for you."

"How do you know?"

"I know a few things."

"You're pretty smart, young man!"

"I think so."

"All right, in one of his joking moods, these moods irritated me more than anything else. They usually came when he knew something about me that I didn't know."

"Well, Sherlock Holmes," I said, "I have you learned that rule?"

"Nothing much. I think I'm going to get Mr. Caston and his gang."

"Me either. I may get a raise if I do."

"That ought to make you happy."

"Will make my landlady happy."

"Why all this kidding? Why don't you tell me what you have in mind and what you have found out?"

"I found out something else about the case. I found out that it was Charles the morning of the murder."

"What does that prove?"

"It would prove a whole lot if we hadn't found it in your house. Charles wasn't there after the murder."

"He might have been. There was some one else in the house with Conklin."

"But it wasn't Charles. He left town."

"Are you sure?"

"Yes, I've been chinning with Gladys Minard. She told me everything she knew about Charles."

"I suppose you will use what she told to convict Charles."

"I would if I thought he was guilty."

"Don't you?"

"Of course not. You know that."

"I don't know anything. I thought I did, but I don't now."

"Don't let the case worry you."

"Of course not. I thought it was nothing to me. You talk like a half-wit."

"Yes, you do. I don't think you know anything, but you act as if you knew who murdered Barry Crox."

"I know who murdered Barry Crox. I know the only thing I don't know is who murdered him."

"I looked at the street we were on. My heart missed a beat. We were on Second Avenue—near Barry Crox's home."

"We are near Barry's home," I said. "Did you intend to come this way?"

"No, I was just driving around," Thornton said, gazing ahead at the house.

He slowed his car down and we passed the house at almost a walking pace. I looked at the corner of my eyes. I was afraid to look directly at the house. It had a queer, old-fashioned look.

"The person who murdered Barry came out that front door and crossed the lawn," Thornton said. "That person was wearing a suit of clothes we found in that closet."

"I never got a chance to answer. Thornton said the man the same way."

It was James Conklin, the butler. "I'm going in that house," Thornton said. "I will drive you around the block and leave you there. I think I will find out what I've been wanting to know for some time."

It is one of the coolest places in town. Seating accommodations for four hundred.

Thursday, 7:45 in basement, where it is cool and comfortable.

MULFORD

BOONE LAWYER WILL SEEK TO RECOVER FUND

Shortage of Money in Luther School Is Cause of Action

BOONE, Ia.—(INS)—Boone county attorney L. R. Johnson Saturday informed International News Service at Des Moines by long distance telephone that he will file a claim some time next week in an effort to recover $8,686.76 from the estate of the late W. S. Criswell, who is believed responsible for a shortage in the Luther consolidated school funds.

Following a report from the state auditor's office received Saturday that the shortage in the fund existed, Mr. Johnson made his announcement that he would seek to regain the money from the estate of the deceased secretary of the board of the consolidated school.

Criswell died last month following an operation and, according to Johnson today, the shortage was discovered immediately after his death.

According to the county attorney the shortage which was extended over a period of five years, occurred through the sale of insurance by Criswell to the board for the school. Criswell, Johnson said, signed vouchers for payment of insurance in excess of the amount for which the insurance policies were issued.

The claim is expected to be filed as soon as the board of supervisors meets next week here. Criswell's widow is administratrix of the estate.

No inventory of the estate has been taken, Johnson said today, adding that he did not know whether there was a chance for the county to regain all of the misappropriated funds or not.

Keota

KEOTA, Ia.—(Special)—Lloyd Barrad was arrested here last week by Marshall and a Constable Cady on a liquor charge. He was taken to Sigourney, arraigned and pleaded guilty before Judge Patterson to illegal transportation. He was fined $300 and sentenced to five months in jail, the latter to be suspended on payment of the fine and the condition that he leave Keota within a certain number of weeks.

Rev. Father Decker, pastor of the Catholic church here, is to be transferred to Ottumwa, and Rev. Father Thomas of Nichols is to come here. The change will be made about July 1.

Keota's two high school athletes, Richard Bott and Chester Pence won eight points at the National Inter-Scholastic track and field meet at Stagg field, Chicago.

The chautauqua dates have been set ahead one day and will start July 14 and end the 18th.

Moscow

MOSCOW, Ia.—(Special)—Word was received here of the death of Sam T. Evans on Friday at his home in this place. Mr. Evans, who was 65 years of age, died of a heart ailment. He was a well-known resident of Moscow, having lived here for many years. He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Evans and was born in Cedar county and had spent his entire life in this community.

His body was cremated at Kansas City, Wednesday.

Important Right of Citizens Are At Stake in K-TNT Radio Decision

By W. D. RANDALL

Since my return from Washington, a week ago, so many people have asked me so many questions it seems incumbent to answer some of them.

One question which exceeds all others is "Will K-TNT come back on the air and when?"

It is my firm conviction that K-TNT will come back on the air but I am not sufficiently a prophet to say when. The reason I firmly believe Mr. Baker will eventually be successful in his radio fight is because the law seems clearly with him.

Many Questions Involved

There are so many legal points involved in the K-TNT case that nothing more than a brief discussion of them could be attempted here. The whole matter is a controversy between powerful interests and the law—and I am still old fashioned enough to believe that the law is still supreme in this country and will eventually triumph over political influence. There are two legal propositions involved, however, which should be of interest to the public.

Constitutional Questions

Both of these propositions raise constitutional questions and are of vital importance, not only to Mr. Baker and other broadcasters, but to every citizen of the United States. If it were not for the broad, general effect of the K-TNT decision, I feel Mr. Baker would not be spending thousands of dollars to fight the matter through the courts. It is a bigger question than just whether K-TNT shall be kept on the air—it involves the question of whether the Constitution of the United States may be utterly ignored and the rights of the people trampled upon with impunity.

Closing a Blessing

As everyone closely associated with Norman Baker knows, the closing of K-TNT has proved a blessing to him. Radio stations work on schedule time. Mr. Baker has been compelled to eat with his eyes watching the clock, in order to be ready with his familiar "Hello Folks" when his broadcast period arrived. He has been unable to plan long evening trips as he knew the studio staff would be waiting to turn the microphone on him at 12:05 midnight. It has jeopardized his health and made him a slave.

This is only mentioned in passing because I want to emphasize that Norman Baker is spending thousands of dollars fighting for a principle—not for personal gain.

Free Speech

Perhaps the most important angle of the controversy involves the question of free speech. If there is one right which is guaranteed under the constitution, it is the right of free speech. Congress recognized this right when it inserted into the radio law the following provision:

"Sec. 29. Nothing in this Act shall be understood or construed to give the licensing authority the power of censorship of the radio communications or signals transmitted by any radio station, and no regulation or condition shall be promulgated or fixed by the licensing authority which shall interfere with the right of free speech by means of radio communication. No person with the jurisdiction of the United States shall utter any obscene, indecent, or profane language by means of radio communication."

What is Censorship?

It would appear from this section of the radio law that the commission which is the licensing authority referred to, does not have the power to censor radio broadcasting but the entire decision in the K-TNT case is based upon things done or things said by Mr. Baker cream social held at the Grout church Thursday evening.

Leonard Alimier of Cedar Rapids attended the funeral of Everett Reece held at the Christian church Wednesday afternoon.

Myra and Emma Huskins of Lone Tree were guests of Miss Lois Shair Wednesday.

Friends here have received an announcement of the marriage of Ransom Amolung to Miss Margaret Kennedy on Friday, June 11, at Baltimore, Maryland. Ransom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George Amolung of Washington, and they were former residents of Keota. They will arrive soon for a few days' visit with his parents at Washington.

Arthur Perrin was a business visitor in Iowa City, Friday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Sykes of Mitchellville, Ia., are visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Hesselwerdt and with Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Hesselwerdt.

Mrs. R. V. Mellinger, Mrs. A. J. Martin, Mrs. T. V. Knerr, Miss Margaret Sakulin and Mrs. George Jepsen enjoyed a picnic at the Iowa City park Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Sykes, Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Hesselwerdt were business visitors in Cedar Rapids Thursday.

Miss Alma Miller of Iowa City is visiting for a few days at the home of her sister, Mrs. Herbert Beachy, and Mrs. Paul Snyder.

Max Boone is visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. M. N. Adams at Iowa City.

Miss Marie Boone is spending a few days in the country at the home of her sister, Mrs. William Jackson.

Washington

WASHINGTON, Ia.—(Special)—Senator Smith W. Brookhart arrived recently for a short visit at his home here. His secretary, Miss Elizabeth Fisher, has been at her home here for some time.

Miss Marie Jackson, bookkeeper at the L. Rothschild here, spent Wednesday night at her home near Kalona. Her father, W. H. Jackson, spent Wednesday, June 17, in Washington.

The Better Washington club enjoyed a barbecue supper at the Diamond Inn Friday night, June 19. On June 26 it will be a year since the murder of Sheriff W. F. Sweet and Night Marshall Aaron Bailey over the radio. The commission claims it is not censorship to complain after a matter has been broadcast; that censorship means to prohibit the broadcasting of something beforehand. In the Brinkley case, involving station KFKB, of Milford, Kansas, the Court of Appeals sustained this position by its opinion.

Censorship in Effect

Mr. Baker's contention is that the ruling of the commission is just as much censorship, in effect, as it would be for the radio body to prohibit the broadcasting of anything beforehand. The Supreme Court of the United States, in an opinion recently handed down, clearly sustains Mr. Baker's contention in this regard. The opinion was written by Chief Justice Hughes and decided the now-famous Minnesota "rag law" case. Except that in the Minnesota case a newspaper's rights were involved, the cases are as like as two peas. Minnesota enacted a statute under which a newspaper could be enjoined from further publication in the event it printed any libelous matter. In the K-TNT case, the commission claims that Mr. Baker "attacked" individuals over the radio and should be eliminated from the air because such broadcasting was "not in the public interest, convenience and necessity."

Essence of Censorship

In holding the Minnesota law unconstitutional, Chief Justice Hughes said, "If we cut through mere details of procedure, the operation and effect of the statute in substance is that public authorities may bring the owner or publisher of a newspaper of periodical before a judge upon a charge of conducting a business of publishing scandalous and defamatory matter—in particular that the matter consists of charges against public officers of official dereliction—and unless the owner and publisher is able and disposed to bring competent evidence to satisfy the judge that the charges are true and are published with good motives and for justifiable ends, his newspaper or periodical is suppressed and further publication is made punishable as a contempt. THIS IS CENSORSHIP."

This would seem to dispose of the right of the Radio Commission to punish broadcasters under the thin guise of "public interest, convenience and necessity."

Due Process of Law

Another right guaranteed to citizens by the constitution is that their property will not be taken without due process of law. The courts have defined due process of law as an orderly procedure conducted according to established legal precedents. The hearing afforded Mr. Baker by the commission was anything but that. Space forbids extensive discussion of this feature but it is sufficient to say that all established rules of evidence were abrogated and the hearing itself held before an examiner—instead of the commission as by law provided—who does not have authority to administer an oath.

Important Rights

The right of free speech is a treasure one in this country. It is a right that the courts have been quick to defend when Congress or the legislatures have attempted to limit it by legislative action. The right to be secure in one's property and not to fear its loss without due legal process is an even more important right. The K-TNT case is obviously one where both of these rights are being denied to Norman Baker—the instance and request of his enemies.

We cannot help but feel that so important a question should not be left undecided and such flagrant violation of a citizen's rights be left unchallenged.

The murdered has not been apprehended.

Miss Pearl Gardner of Alasworth spent Wednesday morning, June 17, in Washington. In the afternoon her mother, Mrs. Wilbur Gardner entertained a number of ladies at their country home north of Alasworth. Miss Gardner has a beautiful flower garden and the Gardner is one of the show places in this part of the country. Mr. Gardner owns several hundred acres of land in Oregon and Highland townships. Miss Gardner took several blue ribbons at the Alasworth Flower show held last week.

86,000 MILES Here's an endurance record that speaks for RIVERSIDE Quality. The tire shown above was sent us by Mr. J. H. Ralston of Delano, California, as an expression of his satisfaction with RIVERSIDE service. Over all kinds of roads, and in all kinds of weather, this sturdy RIVERSIDE clicked off mileage. Twenty thousand, fifty thousand, seventy-five thousand miles—and still going strong! And at last, after his RIVERSIDE Cord had covered better than 86,000 miles, Mr. Ralston sent it back to Ward's as an example of RIVERSIDE endurance.

WARD'S RIVERSIDES are Turning in Amazing Mileage Records All Over America! 42,000, 68,000, 86,000 MILES!

AFTER all, you buy a tire for just one thing—and that's MILEAGE. And you do get A MILEAGE when you buy a Riverside. Note the tire above that covered 86,000 miles. And Mr. C. A. Puariea of Portland, Ore., writes us about four Riversides that have covered 42,000 miles and are still in use. Mr. R. H. Easter of Elma, Washington, reports a Riverside in use every day on a school bus covered 68,000 miles. These three examples are but typical of the scores of letters and reports we are constantly receiving on Riverside performance. These three testimonials came to us unsolicited—they were not bought at a price!

No wonder jealous tire makers and dealers are becoming alarmed over the tremendous swing of tire buyers to Riversides. The most unfair and bitter tactics ever known in the tire industry are being used today to fight Ward's Riversides. Advertising has appeared all over the country in which mail order tires are referred to as "mongrels." Unfair comparison charts are being published and displayed by competitors. Second line tires are being offered under nationally known tire names at the same prices as first quality Riversides—BUT THEY CAN'T BEAT RIVERSIDE PERFORMANCE, AND THAT'S WHAT COUNTS, and that's what the customer wants.

We'll Match Riversides
... on the Road ... Against ANY Tire Made and We'll Beat it in Price!

Riverside tires are one of the best known in America. They have been sold for 19 years. They are made by one of the largest tire companies in the world. They are built to the most rigid specifications known. They are the finest quality it is possible to produce. They are backed by a guarantee that is without limit as to time or mileage. AND THEY SELL FOR LESS THAN ANY FIRST QUALITY NATIONALLY ADVERTISED TIRE ON THE MARKET! These sound-like sensational claims. But they're FACTS. Montgomery Ward & Co., one of the largest merchandising institutions in the world, now in its 59th year in business, stands back of every claim made in its advertisements. Note this—the nationally advertised tires offered you at the same prices as Riversides are NOT the first quality tires of the manufacturers who make them—but their second quality tires—put on the market to meet Riverside prices. So, always compare qualities as well as prices. The table at the right lists some of the best known first quality tires that DO compare with Riversides in quality—YOU COMPARE THE PRICES!

Here are some leading makes of tires that are similar in quality to our 4-ply Riversides, and the published list prices:

Loss of K-TNT Big Blow to Radio Fans, Letters Declare

CAN'T GET K-TNT

Mr. Norman Baker, Muscatine, Iowa.
Dear Sir:
I heard your parting address over Station K-TNT yesterday afternoon, and I was very sorry to hear that your station was going off the air. Is there anything that the people could do to help give a good decision in the Court of Appeals?

I think I would be able to put in a little money in a station that you might want to build. Would the people of Iowa be able to get any programs from Mexico? We cannot get any programs from Shenandoah on our radio.

I have often thought that it would be a good idea to have you for a Governor of Iowa or a Senator from this State. I think you would be able to help matters quite a bit.

I have listened to your talks nearly every time they were on the air since I came home from school. We are subscribers of the Midwest Free Press also.

I wish you all kinds of luck in your future fights, and I will try to help you.

Sincerely yours,
B. H. Wierland, Ia.

REGRETS LOSS

Midwest Free Press, Muscatine, Iowa.
Enclosed find three one dollar bills for which send the Midwest Free Press to the name on the subscription order.

Will you regret that we have lost one of the finest stations on the air and the only station that told the truth. But we will go on. I will help in every way I can and all I can see the A. M. A. whipped.

I also will help Norman Baker reach the chair of governor of Iowa. I will go the limit for him. He is the only man who has spoken the truth for the common folk, and he is worthy of all our support to the end.

Yours respectfully,
Dr. W. C. S. Hedrick, Ia.

LIVE IN HOPE

Dear Mr. Baker:
Our best friend of the air, K-TNT is silent but will live in hopes not forever. Mr. Baker, by no means did they give you a square deal. That just shows disloyalty given to man fighting for his rights and giving the world K-TNT.

In fairness, the thousands of letters sent to the Federal Radio Commission should have kept K-TNT on the air. We did our bit by sending in four.

Feel so sorry, especially for our good friend Bob Baker, and we surely miss him. Here's hoping the circulation of the Midwest Free Press will go over the top—and enclosed check for 2 dollars for a month's subscription as I heard you announce over K-TNT in your farewell message.

We are also readers of TNT magazine, and 100 per cent for Baker hospital as I the writer have taken treatments there in Feb. and March, 1930, and know the world of good they did for me. Would be glad to give you a written testimonial any time.

Here's wishing you the best of luck in your future efforts.

Respectfully yours,
Mrs. Glenn I. Anderson,
R. I. Keithsburg, Ill.

U. S. A. NEEDS FIGHTERS

Dear Mr. Baker:
I was very sorry to hear that K-TNT was taken off the air. The old U. S. A. needs thousands of men just like you to straighten out the mess we are in and the way the big gang is trying to run us the hell fellows.

I am very much in favor of you running for governor of Iowa but I would much rather have you for president of the U. S. You can depend on my vote and also my wife's vote and all our support in anything you may attempt hoping for a sooner or later we can hear that good old "Hello Folks" over station K-TNT again.

Some time ago you mentioned that there were no stores in Davenport that did not care for the dirt farmers trade. I would like to know what stores there are and I will never trade there again and tell all my friends not to trade there.

Yours very truly,
W. H. Clarence, Iowa.

BELIEVES IN LIBERTY

People's Pulpit:
What is liberty, and where is it? Liberty is that quality to be enjoyed by every individual that allows a complete freedom of development along all lines.

Just read the Constitution and you will see that the Federal Radio Commission has violated some of the sacred rights that belong to every individual. In the Preamble some of the reasons why the Constitution of the United States was written are given: "We the people of the United States, in order to form a more perfect Union, establish Justice, insure domestic Tranquility, provide for the common defense, promote the general Welfare, and secure the Blessings of Liberty to ourselves and our Posterity, do ordain and establish this Constitution for the United States of America."

The German Government created a sensation among the nations of the world during the Great War, when it declared that all foreign agreements were mere scraps of paper; but, listen, liberty lovers, the men who run our government are making, or trying to make, our own constitution a mere scrap of paper, as far as it applies to our personal liberty. Are you the people going to stand for it?

There are only a few things left for you to do. Get behind those organizations that are defending you, such as the Midwest Free Press. Give them your support and you will win out, but not until you have made a long, hard fight. The Revolutionary Fighters didn't win victory in a day. They won but few battles on the field of conflict, instead by keeping at it, they eventually won the most important battle, freedom from the oppressors. Just keep going and you will win your fight against those who are trying to run you, or ruin you.

The hard times among the laborer, farmer and the common people in this time of depression are caused by the exploitation of you, the people, by forces similar to those that have succeeded in closing K-TNT. The government is not being run for the benefit of the people but is being run for the benefit of a few moneyed individuals who have control of its officials.

The commission claims that K-TNT is not serving public interest. If telling the people where they are being cured of Cancer by a treatment that has been proven a success, and letting the people learn about many other truths of great importance to their liberty and welfare is not serving public interest, then every truth loving man in the country might just as well give up in despair and jump into the nearest river. We are not going to do that. Let us get together and put such cowards, crooks, or whatever you choose to call those who want to suppress our freedom, into the deepest hole known to man.

Gangsters like Al Capone are not as great a menace to our liberty, as those subtle forces who control our government and destroy our freedom of speech and development.

The public that the Federal Radio Commission talks about is not the people, but consists of such special privilege groups as the A. M. A. and the giant power trusts, to whose interest it was not for the best to have K-TNT on the air; while it was to the interest of the people to have these forces exposed. The commission does not listen to the wishes of the common people; it listens only to the dictates of the monopolists.

When the next election comes around just remember, who fought against you and who for you. It should not make any difference to you whether the man is a Republican, Democrat, Socialist, or what not, as long as he is for your liberty and welfare; and against giving special privileges to a few. Don't be misled by a friendly pat on the back by some politician trying to get into office to sell his vote to the highest bidder. Just listen to what a "Colonial Democrat" wrote before the Revolutionary War.

"A poor man has rarely the honor of speaking to a gentleman on any terms and never with any familiarity, but few weeks before election time. How many poor men, common men and mechanics have been made happy within this fortnight by a shake of the hand, a pleasing smile and that you are the back of the nation. After you have elected him and you go to ask him to defend your interests you find that somehow his ideas have changed."

Now, is he paying the money interests on the back. All you get is a good skinning. We are either going to have a political revolution brought about by the ballot or an armed revolution brought about by bullets.

Don't you think this country has reached a deplorable condition when a man has to build his mouthpiece outside of the country in order to be assured of freedom of speech? That is what Brinkley is doing and what Norman Baker will have to do to reach his friends by air. This policy by any nation is never for the best interests of its people.

Europe did not allow religious freedom before our country was settled, consequently those people wanting freedom came over here, that they might worship as they pleased. Eventually they built a nation stronger than any of the mother countries. The Lord took the cream of the thinkers of Europe to settle this country. Some with the capitalistic idea of personal profit tried to settle this country but failed. It took the common people with one ideal, freedom, to make a lasting settlement.

The successful settlers wanted personal freedom. Now, are you, the people, going to permit a few monopolists, the same type of individuals that have ruined every great nation in past history, ruin the nation that many of our forefathers fought to preserve? Are you going to allow the monopolist drive the people from our country who are progressive and liberal minded enough to try new ideas and theories, which are of a great benefit to you?

How many of you are willing to set out with me to avenge the death of K-TNT? Let us get back of Mr. Baker if he wants to sell stock in another station. I am sure that I will buy some, providing I can get hold of some cash that the monopolists can not bleed out of me for something I need.

Come on folks, let's get going. We can not take any money with us when we leave this earth. But we can leave a record that all who knew us will be proud of, and something for the future generations to turn at in an effort to excel our accomplishments.

Yours for more personal liberty,
Chester L. Holstrom,
Woodhull, Ill.

HE'S FOR BAKER
Dear Friend Mr. Baker:
Mr. Baker, I do not know what to say. I am very, very downhearted and put out about it. About three years ago or maybe five years, four of my chums and I broadcasted from your station under the title of "Acme Synopators." We played old and new time music.

From that date on I was for you and I still am. I am taking your paper now by delivery boy also and taking the Daily Times and am just aching for the time to come when that guy comes to renew the subscription.

What I don't tell him there and then will be final.

I might add that I will drop his paper and at the same time will subscribe for yours by the year. Say about Muscatine, it's going to be too bad for them. I for myself and a good long list of parties that are forgetting that Muscatine is on the map except Mr. Baker and those there that were and are still with you.

I would like to have a list of the stores that are for you, lawyers, etc. so if we do come there to trade we want to trade with those that were for you. And nearly everyone that is taking those papers that are against you are dropping same and are planning to subscribe for yours.

It is interesting to know that all the farmers, the fearless, with you being off the air, I might as well sell my radio, I don't want to listen to that chain stuff anymore. We want you back on the air and right now. Remember there are thousands for you.

Yours respectfully,
H. P. Atalissa, Ia.

Hopes for Reform
People's Pulpit:

Enclosed please find remittance for a year's subscription to Midwest Free Press, the finest and most interesting editorial I ever read. I would rather read the Midwest Free Press than any paper in the whole state of Iowa because it has newsy news that is worth while reading. As for the Federal Radio commission refusing to renew the K-TNT license—small wonder when you know who are in back of them. If I had my way that gang would get what they justly deserve, and I don't mean maybe. It shows they would rather be wrong than be right and what is right and be truthful. O hope some day they will see the light of day, and realize what dirty work they are doing towards the public by depriving them of a station that is mostly needed above all others on the air.

Instead of condemning Mr. Baker who is fighting the battles of the public they should give him justice for the good he is doing for suffering humanity but, no, they would rather pull the wool over your eyes and hold you in back of them. If the almighty dollar, that's in their line of business.

Wish everybody would get next to their inside dope, and I hope the time will soon come when the Wall street gang will be forced to reform and I hope the plan to bring back prosperity will materialize and that plans to lock the immigration and hold you over the top with a bang. Many others I have talked to, hope you win out and remain on the air as long as there are radios, which I think there will always be.

I have had my radio two years past and I will say I never heard any indecent remarks or any profanity over K-TNT in my life and I have never heard any one say so either.

I was here in Davenport at the time they tried to put WOC off the air and I remember that WOC had circulars printed and passed them to the school children and the people at churches and canvassed from house to house for the people to sign that wanted them to remain on the air and he won.

because I know we shall miss your very interesting talks, and too, because the enemies of "our" K-TNT are rejecting over your silence. If over a people should cleave together it is now.

If you should run for governor of Iowa, I would love to vote for you. We do need a true man to lead the people of Iowa. Mr. Baker, I do believe you could be a wonderful minister of the gospel, as you have a personality that could be of utmost value. I do trust that God has a greater office in store for you and will call you to be an instrument in his hand.

Respectfully, R. E.

Grieved
We want you to know we are grieved beyond words at the closing of K-TNT. We miss you and all the best so much. We don't get much good of our radio since.

We did everything we could to help keep your station on the air and we are trying to get some subscriptions for office paper for you and Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Galesburg, Ill.

Can Read Paper
People's Pulpit:

I don't care who knows I shed real tears when K-TNT was taken off the air. We loved Mr. Baker's voice and we loved those girls and boys at Station K-TNT and we loved to see them many times. We are a subscriber to your paper and I have talked many into taking your paper. We cannot now listen to Mr. Baker's educational talks but we can still read his paper—also TNT.

Truly yours,
Mr. and Mrs. August Reher, Camanche, Iowa.

Never Heard Profanely
People's Pulpit:

Mr. Norman Baker,
Dear Sir:
I am a constant listener to your programs every day over K-TNT and I have always been pleased with the same. I am greatly interested in your trouble with the radio commission and I, like many others I have talked to, hope you win out and remain on the air as long as there are radios, which I think there will always be.

stone in the slipping, slipping of some of the vital things of life. We the people of the central states, who do the work of production, whether on the farm or in the shop, have a few right which will fight for it need to be heard. We will never, never give over every single point to the capitalist crowd, for when we lose our right of free speech, free press, free public sentiment to be aroused.

Our newspapers and our magazines, together with our broadcast stations, create more sentiment than all other agencies combined. To curb, censor, and suppress them in favor of big business will be fatal. Our forefathers were militant in their fight for the right. They were willing and did lay down their lives for the principles which made this nation free.

But where are we drifting? Have we a single ally, except The Midwest Free Press which speaks out openly against big business, giant monopolies, political graft and corruption among the big fellows.

I believe the fight against K-TNT and Norman Baker was all on the side of the people, and when they brought up the charge of practicing medicine without a license, there was nothing to that. His doctors were licensed and his results were never questioned.

But Mr. Baker's colossal mistake was his holding up the errors of the American Medical Association to the public gaze. No man I know here tofore has been brave enough to face the powerful machine guns of the A. M. A., and question their fallibility. He even went as far as to recommend drugless physicians. This was the last straw that broke the camel's proverbial back and Norman Baker must be clobbered and silenced, at whatever the cost. And you well know they never stop at cost.

Well—just you wait a few years and see who will pay the cost. When we get state medicine, compulsory vaccination, not only for small pox but for every known disease—and many more to come, and your boys and girls will be sent to the penitentiary to receive their scratch, just as they do now with your herds of cattle, then you will know who pays the bills.

But you may ask. What can I do about it? NOTHING, JUST NOTHING AT ALL. Just sit by with your mouths closed, plastered up with three thicknesses of adhesive, and don't you let a peep out of you or the gang will get you too. To H--- with the gang who will close the mouth of a Red Blooded American when he is using that mouth for the emancipation of a people who are fast becoming shackled.

Let's have a little militance, even today, and dare to spend a measly dollar in the cause of Liberty of the press and air. It is my honest opinion that dollars now may save blood in the future, and I for one will help to establish a big Free Station on the Mexican border where the battles for the poor man can still be fought and won.

Enjoyed Talks
People's Pulpit:

Indeed I'm with you in the fight for humanity's sake, and if we had a few more such men as you are in this world to live.

I surely miss K-TNT station, listened each day to your talks and enjoyed them so much. I sincerely wish your station will be restored to you and to the good people.

Just wait and give them a little more time and rope and they will hang themselves.

Good luck to you and may God be with you in this a winning fight.

Mr. R. S. Cedar Rapids, Ia.

WANTS TO HELP
Dear Mr. Baker:

I am very sorry that my favorite station K-TNT has been taken off the air. The act is nothing less, in my mind, than denying us "freedom of speech."

I know that your fearless and courageous talks have been 100 per cent truth or you would have been forced to face many damage suits. The common people all over the world want the truth and they have a right to have it. I believe the run the country, they have worn their system out, they have their last hold. They can only hold on and keep the poor class in check by military rule, the stronger the poor class gets, the greater the military strength.

It shows how they have used force rule in this country, when the hungry marchers went to the state capitols, also when the worker delegates went to Washington, they were met with armed force.

These workers were all peaceful, but they get clubbed on the head anyhow just because they want unemployment insurance and other bills passed to give relief to the poor class of people—what does the capitalist papers say about it?

All capitalist papers says is "riots" when they all know well enough that it is not true. When ever the poor class tries to get anything it is called "rioting" and lots of other nonsensical names that are lies.

Muscatine is losing a great mouthpiece now that it is losing K-TNT. Muscatine will never again see large crowds like it once has seen. I have been in Muscatine several times and every time that I was there it had several thousand people. K-TNT had many loyal friends among the farmers and laborers.

Yours very truly,
L. L. O. Kewanee, Ill.

Twins Disappointed
Dear Mr. Baker:

We folks are very, very sorry your station was dismissed from the air. It was very entertaining as well as an educational station to farmers throughout Iowa and other places.

Another says, "We have no use for the radio now" as she always listened to almost every program on the air—and never missed your wonderful talks. I and my twin sister were planning for Bob Findley to sing another number for our birthday next Sunday, as he did last year. We are out that event now, as long as Bob can't sing, no one will and can take his place, we believe

MATE EQUALS RECORD TO WIN DERBY

GOODMAN WINS GOLF CROWN IN GREAT FINISH

Omahan Runs True to Form in Defeating L. Bolstead

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn.—(INS)—Johnny Goodman of Omaha, true to form, won the Trans-Mississippi golf championship Saturday when he defeated Lester Bolstead of Minneapolis on the fourteenth hole of the final round on the Golden Valley course here.

Goodman capped off a dazzling exhibition of a week's duration by holding out a long putt for a birdie on the fourteenth hole after it appeared that Bolstead might come back and make a fight of it to the finish.

Saturday's victory gave Goodman his second Trans-Mississippi golf championship.

Goodman in comeback Three down at the turn of the afternoon round, Goodman returned to his par matching on the second nine after being off his game on the outward side. Then he took four straight pars and finished with a birdie on the fourteenth after Bolstead had won the thirteenth with a birdie.

Bolstead got into trouble on the first hole when he drove into the rough, got out rather weakly, almost drove his third out of bounds and finally conceded the hole.

Bolstead started playing golf. He laid out a beautiful drive and followed with a second which took to the green for a short chip shot. He made a par five.

Meantime Goodman was having trouble. His second went into a trap and he missed a nice approach putt which would have given him a halve on the hole. Bolstead's rally was short-lived; his second on the fourth hole went into a trap. He came out well, but Goodman was playing regulation golf, having laid his second hole high on the green and dropping two putts for another win.

Thus he was again three up as the two crossed to the fifth tee. On the fifth, both drivers were short, both dropping their approach a yard from the pin and both missing the hole. Goodman's second shot into the creek; Goodman was on in four while Bolstead negotiated the green in three strokes for a win that returned the count to two up.

Bolstead falls again Bolstead had another chance for a win as Goodman three-putted the eighth, but again he failed to come through when he missed one short putt. Goodman halved the hole despite his three putts.

Ben Cowdrey of Omaha defeated Nate Gates of Kenyon, Minn., 6 and 5. For the previous five rounds, Goodman and Bolstead of the Minneapolis Country Club was three up after 18 holes of his 36 hole stretch with Don Burris of Golden Valley.

BEARS TO MEET GEORGIA TECH

Dec. 26 Game to Mark California's First Trip to South

BERKELEY, Calif.—(INS)—With the addition of an intercollegiate game with Georgia Tech on December 26 in Atlanta, the University of California's 1931 football schedule is complete. The Georgia Tech game will mark California's first invasion of the South. The game will be the second between teams of the two institutions. The first, the 1929 New Year's game at the Pasadena Rose Bowl, was won by Georgia Tech, 8 to 7.

The Golden Bears will travel to the Northwest during the regular season, meeting Washington State, 1930 conference champions at Portland, Ore., October 17. The complete schedule: Sept. 26, Santa Clara at Berkeley; Oct. 2, St. Mary's at Berkeley; Oct. 10, Olympic Club at Berkeley; Oct. 17, W. S. C. at Portland; Oct. 24, Southern California at Berkeley; Oct. 31, Nevada at Berkeley; Nov. 7, Washington at Berkeley; Nov. 14, Idaho at Berkeley; Nov. 21, Stanford at Palo Alto; December 26, Georgia Tech at Atlanta.

AND PRETTY When Miss Loretta Turnbull of California defends her outdoor title July 4th at Beaumont she'll be challenged by a native daughter. Miss Lillian Carroll, "beautiful and darling" Dallas girl.

OLD STYLE Lee Hyatt, New Hampshire's representative on the padded mat, does not sport a college diploma like so many other wrestling chaps; he just got that way by moving planes. He carried one 5 blocks.

New York Beats Pittsburgh Two Games, 3-1, 10-0

NEW YORK—(INS)—The Giants won both ends of a double header here Saturday, beating the Pirates 3 to 1 and 10 to 0.

The pitching of both teams was excellent in both games until the eighth inning of the second game when the Giants scored seven of their ten runs.

The first game was bitterly fought out between Bill Walker and Glenn Spencer, the former taking the decision. Walker held the Pirates to eight hits and the Giants got nine including Mel Ott's seventh-home run of the season.

In the nightcap, Freddy Fitzsimmons in addition to his fine pitching got three hits one of them a home run. Frank Hogan and Johnny Vargas also homered.

Ervin Brame started the second game for the Pirates but was taken out in the eighth and Bob Osborn finished the game.

YANKEES TAKE ANOTHER FROM BROWNS, 9 TO 1

Charlie Ruffing Lets Browns Down With Pair of Hits

ST. LOUIS, Mo.—(INS)—Charlie Ruffing let the St. Louis Browns down with two hits here Saturday afternoon, a single in the first inning by Goslin and another by Kress in the ninth, and the Yanks made it two straight over the Browns by a 9 to 1 score.

It was the ninth consecutive defeat for the Browns.

Lou Gehrig led a twelve-hit New York attack with a home run, doubling and tied them in the sixth and in the seventh frame added another run. Box score:

DETROIT MAKES IT TWO IN ROW FROM RED SOX

Tigers Score Winning Run in Ninth Frame To Win by 5 to 4

NAVIN FIELD, DETROIT.—(INS)—The Tigers took the second of their series with the Boston Red Sox here Saturday afternoon when Ray Hayworth, Tiger catcher, whose error in the first half of the ninth had permitted Boston to tie the count, crossed homeplate with the winning run. The score was 5 to 4.

The Red Sox grabbed an early lead in the game but the Tigers rallied and tied them in the sixth and in the seventh frame added another run. Box score:

Sewell Making Good After Being Tagged all Through

BY FRANK (BUCK) O'NEILL (INS Sports Writer)

NEW YORK—Just about six months ago the Cleveland Indians caved in under the hard campaigning of ten full years of major league play. It was said he would never be able to play major league ball.

Ed Barrow didn't believe all the stories about Sewell. He thought the Alabama boy would be a handy sort of player to have with the Yankees outfit this year.

So Barrow reached for a telephone, talked terms to Jole and obtained his consent to play in New York. Other less enterprising ball clubs wrote letters to Jole. They believed the Cleveland version of the yarn.

Right now Sewell is giving the Jovous lie to the Cleveland statements. He has stepped into the breach at third base for the Yankees and is playing a whale of a game.

Jole is moving to left or right and somehow or other, you know that when he gets his paws on a ball, the runner is out. He always knows just where to throw a ball and he puts plenty on his paws.

Emergencies do not develop men, we're told. They do discover men. Well, old man emergency is discovering Sewell for the second time in his experience. In 1920 Ray Chapman was hit on the head by a pitched ball and died as a result of his injuries. The Indians had no shortage to replace the deceased Chapman, so they turned to New Orleans, Cleveland farm.

Sewell, just off the campus of University of Alabama was rushed into the majors and he finished the season for Cleveland, aiding no little in winning the pennant. A special ruling had to be passed to permit Sewell to play against the Brooklyn Robins. He did some mighty good work in the big hit and went on from there to win fame as one of the keenest eyed batsmen in the history of baseball.

Sewell writes it in his own private record book. "Sewell will help this ball club," said Ed Barrow, when he signed Sewell. "I know what Sewell can do," said McCarthy this Spring. But Jole waited for a long time before he put the little Clevelander into action. He wanted to give Lazzeri all the time necessary to break the batting slump that attended the Italian boy's bat. But the move finally was made.

Standings Certain To Be Changed in Kittenball League Kittenball fans are looking forward to two important games this week that will change the standings at several of the leading teams in the National kittenball league as the four leaders in the standing play each other.

One of these important contests will be staged Monday night at the West park where the Fig Tire Shop and the M. & W. Chevrolet teams meet. Should the Tire Shop team win it would go into a tie for second place with the Chevies with five wins and two defeats. If the Chevies win they will be sure of a tie for first place.

Another important National league game is the Orange Squeeze—Standard Oil engagement to be played at Weed park on Wednesday evening. Each team at present has five wins and one defeat and the winner has a chance to take undisputed leadership should the Pigs defeat the Chevies.

Boston Braves Cop Pair From Cards, 5-1, 3-2

BRAVES FIELD, Boston.—(INS)—The tribe celebrate Fred Hoey day, in honor of the baseball radio broadcaster, by taking a double header from St. Louis Saturday, 5 to 1 and 3 to 2, much to the delight of 35,000 sweltering fans, who jammed the wigwam in a heat of 95 degrees.

In the first game, Tom Zachary held the slugging Cardinals to four scattered hits while his fellow Braves were pounding Flint Rhem. Freddie Maquire clinching victory in the seventh with a two base hit while the bases were loaded. It was the same Maquire who shot in the winning run in the 9th inning of the second game. He got a freak double when the ball hit the third base bag and bounded away from eager hands. Maquire went to third on Hunnefeld's sacrifice and scored on Dreesen's single.

WINNER SPURTS NOSE AHEAD OF PITTSBURGER

Crowds Are Thrilled As Mate Comes from Behind to Win

By BILL BLINN

WASHINGTON PARK, Homewood, Ill.—Mate, A. C. Bostwick's winner of the preakness, equalled the track record here Saturday to win the twenty third running of the American derby before a yelling crowd of more than 40,000 spectators.

He came driving in, with Jockey George Ellis, urging him on to victory, to finish a nose in front of Pittsburgher with Joey Bibb a length behind in third place. Mate's time for the mile and a quarter was 2:04 1-5 equalling the track record. Morphew's field horse, was fourth and Sun Meadow, second choice to Mate, was last in the field of eleven starters.

The son of Prince Pal brought in $48,675 to owner Bostwick and paid $4.50 to the holders of two dollar mutuels. Pittsburgher's place price was $19.28 and Joey Bibb's show tickets brought $11.50.

Running Thrills Crowds The running of the American derby thrilled the crowds that braved the sweltering heat to see eleven of America's best three year olds parade to the post. Only Twenty Grand and Jamestown were missing to settle the champion of that class for the season.

Among those who viewed the classic at Al Capone one time so-called gang czar and more recently deposed by the persistence of the federal government. The "Scarface" had a box and appeared worried by the coming sentence for evasion of income tax payments and conspiracy to break the liquor laws.

Come From Behind Mate came from behind to win Saturday in sixth position as the field left the post with Knight's Call up in front he slipped to seventh place at the half and remained there at the three quarter mark. Boys Howdy was leading then with Ladder second and Cawego third. When they reached the mile Jockey Ellis had sent Mate up into fourth position. Ladder was in first place at that point and Pittsburgher was only a length behind. Boys Howdy was slipping fast as Mate pressed close behind.

It was in the stretch that Ellis did his most admirable work. Pittsburgher was leading by two lengths but Mate was up in second place a length and a half in front of Joey Bibb.

It was a great finish, one well worthy of this famous classic of the turf. One could not ask more than to see Bostwick's great three year old come up from behind to fly to victory by only a nose, and equal the track record at that.

COGGESHALL TO PLAY CANADIAN

Iowan to Defend His Western Singles Title Today

CHICAGO—(INS)—Marcel Rainville, Canadian Davis Cup star, and Harris Coggeshall, Des Moines, defending champion, Saturday won their way into the finals in the western singles championship here. They will meet today to decide the title.

Rainville continued his winning streak by defeating Hett Bowman of New York, 6-1, 6-3, 6-4. Coggeshall, after losing two straight sets, staged a rally to defeat George Jennings, national public champ, 7-5, 4-6, 3-6, 6-0, 6-0.

The Des Moines ace went to the clubhouse at the intermission trailing two sets to one, but returned to win seven consecutive games to take the match.

The two matches were played under a broiling hot sun which 350 spectators braved to witness the battle.

Victory for Rainville will take the western singles championship away from the United States for the first time in history.

SPECIAL DELIVERY Cecil Pat Caraway of the White Sox is one of the year's big winners and the same man that several scouts turned down because he had no speed. It's all in his deceptive delivery.

NIGHT HORSES The Lexington Saddle Farm of Chicago spent $20,000 to light its grounds for the first open-air night horse show.

STRIBLING FIGURED TO BEAT SCHMELING FOR TITLE

GEORGIAN HAS EVERYTHING IN HIS FAVOR NOW

Pa Is Sending Willie Against Maxie for Supreme Effort

By FRED TURBYVILLE
There is no good reason to make Max Schmeling, German heavyweight and holder of the world's championship, the favorite in a week from next Saturday's title fight with Lawrence Stribling, Jr., in Cleveland. Stribling should win. He has everything to win with.

Even if he is no better than he was at Miami against Sharkey he should manage a victory over the German.

But he will be a much better fighter if this observer knows his leather.

Big Moment Here
The big moment has arrived for the Striblings and Willie is being sent out to make his supreme effort.

Friends of the Stribling family admit Willie has been mismanaged and mishandled in the past while Mr. and Pa held the boy back believing the time wasn't yet ripe for the big offensive.

"Stribling has never fought his best fight," says one of the friends close by the family circle. "Pa and Ma decided to make a great fighter out of Willie from the day he arrived, which was Dec. 26, 1924."

Started When Baby
"They had him at work almost before he was out of his baby clothes. And they figured to bring him along very slowly."

"They have been a long time deciding that Willie is now mature and ready for the big shot."

"I don't think they had him in the proper mental shape for the fight with Sharkey in Miami. It was one of Willie's poorest ring exhibitions and it came at a time when the whole world was watching him."

After that failure the public was ready to consign Willie to the also rans. But Willie knew he hadn't shown his best, and Ma and Pa knew it too.

Stribling Confident
"To erase that poor showing Willie had to do something sensational and he did it in several fights since. He has shown he has the punch. He has shown his gameness and he is supremely confident of whipping Schmeling. Willie will win and he'll likely win by a knockout."

If Stribling comes into the championship next Saturday it will be a big boost to the sock industry which has fallen into the depths of depression. And it will add hundreds of thousands of dollars, perhaps a million or more, to a fortune already built up by more than ten seasons in the ring.

Stribling should have more than half a million dollars in his estate already. He has had nearly 300 fights and while most of them were in the corn and some half a few shots have brought up the average.

Lost to Good Men
He has had as many times as many fights as Schmeling and against much better opposition. Stribling has lost a few fights but they were to good men like Sharkey, Loughran and Beniamin.

Among the ring authorities who have criticized the Stribling climb to ring heights is the venerable William Muldoon.

While declaring that Stribling looked the cream of the crop to day the old Roman also declared he had been badly mismanaged. He said Stribling was suffering with neurasthenia at the time he made such a poor showing against Sharkey—that he had been permitted to ruin his nerves speeding about the country in airplanes, fast automobiles, motorcycles and speed boats.

Too Much Caution
Even those how now boost Willie a little bit will agree on one point—that there has been too much caution in the Stribling corner when the big fights came around.

Sharkey had his chance—or chances—and booted them away. Stribling booted away at least one grand opportunity. But the coming week-end may see the desired change.

Schmeling is a lucky fellow to be where he is. He isn't a millionaire but he has made more money than he has lost. He has held the title over a year—since June 12 of last year. He won it on a claim of foul, a somewhat doubtful issue at best. And then he failed to keep his promise to fight again, with the man who fouled him into fame and fortune.

German's Luck Warm
So there isn't a very heavy sentiment behind Schmeling. It is doubtful even if his own country is more than lukewarm in its enthusiasm for Maxie.

Of course, Schmeling may show a big form reversal and arise to great heights, himself. It is a chance for Schmeling as well as a chance for Stribling.

And if they should put on a show like the Sharkey-Stribling, the Sharkey-Scott or the Sharkey-Promoters may as well hold up their tents and get jobs in the wrestling trade.

Denver University Star Ends College Career With Record

DENVER—(INS)—Commencement exercises at Denver university saw the termination of one of the most notable athletic careers in the history of Rocky Mountain conference athletics in the graduation of Roy Byers.

Byers received 11 letters during his four years at Denver. Conference rules allow four-year competition in all sports except football, so Byers' record was perfect.

Sunday Ball Fight Started All Over Again in Maryland

Hagerstown, Md., is playing Sunday baseball by a special act of the legislature which made it legal in Washington county to play the game between the hours of 2 and 5 o'clock.

However, no sooner was the first game played than a petition bearing 2,000 names was sent to the secretary of state demanding a referendum.

Now they are trying to decide whether a referendum bearing 2,000 names is sufficient or if it must bear 10,000 names, as the act has statewide aspects.

Hagerstown played some Sunday baseball in 1929 and 1930 but in each instance the players and managers were arrested.

WILSON HELPS BRUINS SWAMP BROOKLYN, 12-7

Pudgy Outfield Star Shows Critics He's Not Through

By LES CONKLIN
(INS Sports Writer)
NEW YORK—Who said Hack Wilson was through?

The erstwhile bench beauty of the Chicago Cubs has hit only eight home runs this season and is ten behind the record at this time last year, when he won circuit-climbing honors. But the pudgy outfielder has walloped four of his eight four-baggers during the past week. A few more weeks at that rate and Hack will yet retain his home run honors.

Wilson hit a home run and a double Friday as the Cubs swamped Brooklyn, 12 to 7, but the real damage was done by the former Pittsburgh trio, Cuyler, Hemsley, and Grimm, who collected nine hits between them. Bob Smith, in winning his seventh game of the season, outpitched five Brooklyn hurlers.

Two Streaks Ruined
Two winning streaks were ruined when Washington lost to Cleveland and the New York Giants bowed to Pittsburgh. Washington had won twelve straight, the Giants had topped six in a row and Pittsburgh had lost six consecutive starts. The Senators now trail the Athletics by 3 1-2 games while the Giants are four full games behind the Cardinals.

Washington's 9 to 6 setback by Cleveland was particularly annoying to the Nats because previously they had not lost to the Indians all season. Miller and Harder were shaky on the mound for Cleveland, but coasted home on the big lead which their mates piled up at the expense of Sam Jones.

Ray Kremer, Pittsburgh veteran, won a 4 to 1 duel from Clarence Ketchum, mound ace of the Giants. New York got hits and Pittsburgh only five.

Mack's Win Again
Lefty Grove was not in his usual brilliant form against the White Sox, but two homers by Phil Todd and another by Al Simmons, and five straight hits by Mule Haas, enabled the A's to breeze home by a 10 to 4 count.

Cliff Kiehn of the Phillies also laced out five consecutive hits as the Phillies lambasted Cincinnati again, 10 to 3. Phil Collins was the winning hurler.

Another Collins, Jim of the Cardinals, drove in four runs as St. Louis rode roughshod over the Boston Braves, 11 to 3. Wild Bill Hallahan on the mound for the champions, hung up his fourth straight victory.

Yanks Swamp Browns
By way of celebrating his 28th birthday, Buster Lou Gehrig smashed his 20th homer of the season, two doubles and a single, and the Yankees buried the St. Louis Browns under a 16 to 5 landslide.

Archie Ruth also walloped his twelfth homer. Tony Lazzeri returned to second base for the Yanks and hit a single.

Detroit, traveling fast after a flop to the cellar, jumped to sixth place in the American league standing by nailing out the Red Sox, 7 to 6, behind George Uhle's pitching. Scores by innings:

And the Trading Season Is All Over!

TEXAS LEAGUE BUSINESS POOR

Loop President Asks Sports Scribes to Be Considerate

By LES CONKLIN
(INS Sports Writer)
NEW YORK—A sure method of starting an argument in a baseball fan's mind is to bring up the question of the relative strength of Washington's and the Athletics' infields.

While conceding the power of Connie Mack's team as a unit, experts have been prone to belittle his inner line of defense. The infield, they said, would be the first cog of the great Philadelphia machine to crack when the team slips from the peak.

This year the sharps have come to the belated realization that Mr. McClellan has a really great infield, one that compares favorably with the famous combination of McInnis, Collins, Baker and Barry, that was broken up in 1914. And there are those who declare that present Philadelphia infield of Fox, Bishop, Dykes and Boley is better than the "Wash" in fourness of Judge, Meyer, Egan and Cronin.

Bucky Harris recently whipped himself into shape and played second base for his Detroit club due to the continued absence of Charley Gehring. If Bucky could step in and fill the breach at shortstop on the Cleveland club by playing the brand of ball that he did ten years ago, the team's effectiveness would be increased enormously.

Alvin C. Gardner, president, sent this letter to all the sports writers in his circuit:

"As you are all aware the Texas league, along with many other long-established institutions, is feeling the effects of the depression. Those of us who have faith in our country know that severe times are only temporary but it appears now that almost every club in the league will have a tough time financially. The balance of the season, as one man who has the interests of the Texas league deeply at heart to another who holds, I am sure, the same feeling, I am making a request which I have never before made."

"I am sending this letter to all sports writers of the league asking them to be as considerate as possible of their club and the trying conditions which they are experiencing."

"So I am asking that in the interest of baseball in your city you 'count ten' whenever your dispatch might find its way into print. I do not believe it is overstating it to say that without the breaks several clubs could conceivably drop out of baseball until better times arrive, although I feel sure with careful co-operation every team will pull through."

650 Escape Heat At Weed Park Pool On the Opening Day

Approximately 650 adults and children made their appearance at the Weed park swimming pool, which was opened for the summer Friday. Bob Kinnam, custodian, said that about 200 attended in the morning with 450 appearing in the afternoon.

Children swarmed to the pool in the afternoon in an attempt to find a cool place, making it necessary to double up on the clothes baskets, Kinnam said.

The pool will be open each day of the week except Mondays and Thursdays on which days the pool is refilled.

The Weed park pool is visited each summer by many people from all over the county including tourists camping at the tourist camp at the park.

Lifeguards at the pool are Sidney Bowen and Chester Hufford.

NEW YORK—A sure method of starting an argument in a baseball fan's mind is to bring up the question of the relative strength of Washington's and the Athletics' infields.

While conceding the power of Connie Mack's team as a unit, experts have been prone to belittle his inner line of defense. The infield, they said, would be the first cog of the great Philadelphia machine to crack when the team slips from the peak.

This year the sharps have come to the belated realization that Mr. McClellan has a really great infield, one that compares favorably with the famous combination of McInnis, Collins, Baker and Barry, that was broken up in 1914. And there are those who declare that present Philadelphia infield of Fox, Bishop, Dykes and Boley is better than the "Wash" in fourness of Judge, Meyer, Egan and Cronin.

Bucky Harris recently whipped himself into shape and played second base for his Detroit club due to the continued absence of Charley Gehring. If Bucky could step in and fill the breach at shortstop on the Cleveland club by playing the brand of ball that he did ten years ago, the team's effectiveness would be increased enormously.

Alvin C. Gardner, president, sent this letter to all the sports writers in his circuit:

"As you are all aware the Texas league, along with many other long-established institutions, is feeling the effects of the depression. Those of us who have faith in our country know that severe times are only temporary but it appears now that almost every club in the league will have a tough time financially. The balance of the season, as one man who has the interests of the Texas league deeply at heart to another who holds, I am sure, the same feeling, I am making a request which I have never before made."

"I am sending this letter to all sports writers of the league asking them to be as considerate as possible of their club and the trying conditions which they are experiencing."

"So I am asking that in the interest of baseball in your city you 'count ten' whenever your dispatch might find its way into print. I do not believe it is overstating it to say that without the breaks several clubs could conceivably drop out of baseball until better times arrive, although I feel sure with careful co-operation every team will pull through."

650 Escape Heat At Weed Park Pool On the Opening Day

Approximately 650 adults and children made their appearance at the Weed park swimming pool, which was opened for the summer Friday. Bob Kinnam, custodian, said that about 200 attended in the morning with 450 appearing in the afternoon.

Children swarmed to the pool in the afternoon in an attempt to find a cool place, making it necessary to double up on the clothes baskets, Kinnam said.

The pool will be open each day of the week except Mondays and Thursdays on which days the pool is refilled.

The Weed park pool is visited each summer by many people from all over the county including tourists camping at the tourist camp at the park.

Lifeguards at the pool are Sidney Bowen and Chester Hufford.

Chicago White Sox Boss Spends Nearly Million to Rebuild

Charles A. Comiskey, owner of the Chicago White Sox, has spent nearly a million dollars since the Black Sox scandal trying to rebuild a winning machine. And today, over ten years since the Comiskey stars were banished from the game, the Sox are still far down in the lists.

Comiskey spent $125,000 immediately following the scandal, replacing his old stars. And since then he has spent huge sums for individual stars. A hundred thousand for one player was nothing to Comiskey. But the best buy he has made in the last ten years was the $6,500 he paid for Pat Caraway who this season has become somewhat of a sensation among pitchers.

TWO CLASS AA LEAGUES PLAN CLASS B TEAMS

Both the American Association and the International League are considering continuous baseball in the sixteen cities making up these big minor circuits.

The idea is not to fill up the club coffers on gate receipts but to develop young players at a minimum expense.

The two big minor leagues propose to have teams of Class B strength in the field, playing at home when the big club is away, and taking to the road when the big club returns.

Such ideas have been tried before but not on such a large scale. The Cleveland Indians once transferred the Toledo club to Cleveland to play when the Indians were on the road. The plan failed to work out and Toledo soon had its club back.

Wyckoff Ties World Record in Beating Hoodoo Dash Rival

LOS ANGELES, Cal.—(INS)—Frank Wyckoff, University of Southern California flyer, has done it at last.

He holds his first win over Percy Williams of Vancouver B. C., 1928 Olympic 100 and 200 meter champion, and the only man whom Wyckoff, now acknowledged the world's fastest human, has hitherto been unable to run into the ground.

So fast was the pace in the special 100 yard event here Friday night that Mr. Williams could do no better than fourth, while Wyckoff leading by more than a yard and going away as he broke the tape, was clocked in the world record time of 9.8 seconds, tying the mark established by Eddie Tolan, Michigan star.

New River State College will play night football at Charleston, W. Va., this fall.

Drake Grid Squad Will Play Hawaii Team in December

DES MOINES—(INS)—Far off Honolulu has been placed on the football schedule of Drake university.

The Drake Bulldogs have arranged a gridiron contest with the University of Hawaii for December 19 to windup a season which will take in a lot of territory.

The Bulldogs schedule includes clashes with Notre Dame at South Bend, Oct. 17; Furman university at the Polo Grounds, Nov. 14; and Los Angeles, Dec. 19.

DUDLEY REPLACES SARAZEN AS WESTERN OPEN KING

NEW CHAMPION HANGS UP 280 SCORE TO WIN

Wilmington, Del., Pro Finishes Ahead of Walter Hagen

By PRESTON HINEBAUGH
INS Sports Writer
MIAMI VALLEY GOLF CLUB, Dayton, O.—Whittling four strokes off par, Big Ed Dudley, the long and gangling Wilmington, Del., professional, Saturday afternoon replaced Gene Sarazen as Western Open king.

Undisturbed by a scorching sun that troubled other stars, the Delaware ace—calm, efficient and accurate throughout—chopped one stroke off par in Saturday morning's round and played the afternoon's brilliant enough to finish with a 71—all even with par.

The stalwart victor's total for the four rounds that have been in progress since Thursday was 280. At the halfway mark he had a 139 aggregate.

Walter Hagen Second
Second to the winner was Walter Hagen of Detroit. The veteran "Hag," who has held the Western Open championship four times in the past, played his 72 hole in 284 shots. He scored a 69 Saturday morning and a 72 in the afternoon.

Three shots behind Hagen came Sarazen, the defending champion, of Lakeville, N. J., and Jock Collins of Dayton. Sarazen had rounds of 73 and 71 today and Collins played 71 and 75.

Dudley held a lead on the field from the close of the second round. Hagen finished ahead at the end of the first day's play, with a starting 68, and Dudley was second with a 69.

When Hagen slid to a 75 for the second round, Dudley, with a 70 edged into the lead.

New Champ Brilliant
Throughout this four rounds, the new champion was brilliant about the greens.

With a gallery of 2,000 admiring his manner with a 70 by reaching off perfect golf for the first eight holes. On the second and sixth he compiled birdies, and on the other holes he rolled the ball dead to the pin. His string of perfect play broke on the ninth where he required three puts to go down.

After the turn he swung into a birdie on the long tenth hole and came back with a par on the 11th. His drive was trapped on the 12th hole and he smacked into another bunker on the route to the green, forcing a six to save.

Two Birdies in Row
With beautiful consistency, he pulled out two birdies in a row. His tee shot—a beautiful stroke—lighted just four inches shy of the pin.

On the 16th hole, he found the trap and lost a stroke to par, while his second shot was wide of its mark on the home hole and he went down in five.

Dudley slipped off 16 paces and a birdie in his 17th hole. He downed the birdie on five where an eight-foot putt dropped.

Through the 15th hole, Dudley performed in perfect style. He drives hitting the middle of the fairway and his irons seemingly magnetized to the pins, needing no more than two puts.

Trouble on 14th
Trouble met up with Dudley on the 14th, however, where his drive was short of the green and missed a three-foot putt to take a four against par of three.

Luckily, though, Dudley's short game saved him. He missed the green on the 15th, with his iron, but he chipped close enough to go down a short putt for par.

Dudley annexed another par on 15 in the same fashion after his iron shot failed to find the carpet. He repeated the formula on the 16th and on the 18th, he had to unlumber the chopper again when his second shot was a trifle wide.

Most Consistent Player
The rangy Wilmington pro was by far the most consistent player in the tournament. He had 17 birdies in the four rounds and went over par on 11 occasions.

The victory in the western open was to Dudley the most important title he has ever assumed. It was his second big championship of the year, having won the Los Angeles open last January.

Walter Hagen, the grand old master who in years previously has annexed four western open championships, lost his chance to annex this year's crown when he played a 75, after compiling a 68 in the initial round Friday.

Benny Valgar Has Neither Scars Nor Money from Boxing

Benny Valgar has returned from Europe to resume boxing. Benny is 33 years old and has spent 16 years in the ring with nothing to show for it but a scrap book. He is unmarked from his many fights and his purse is empty.

"I made a lot of money but lost it when I went into the garage business a few years ago," he says. "However, I still am young and strong and can fight for a long time and I expect to make some of it back."

For the last few years he has been boxing all over Europe and is now a full fledged lightweight.

Votes Pour In For Selection Of Local Team
4th Will Be Eventful Day With Several Entertainments
Due to the fact that the chamber of commerce has been flooded with votes the past two days, making it impossible to give the fans any idea just as to who is leading for the various positions on the all-Muscatine kittenball team to represent this city in the Fourth of July tournament at Weed park, greater and more intense interest is growing concerning the team.

Early in the week votes made their appearance slowly but the last two days they have come in from all over the city and country. Many duplicates have been sent in, making it more difficult to count the votes as these have to be separated from the rest and not counted.

Same Ones Leading
George Zoller, chairman of the chamber of commerce committee sponsoring the tournament, announced however, that from what votes he has counted, it looks like the same ones are leading that were last Thursday but could not say definitely just who would be on the first team. Voting closed at midnight and the team selections will be announced Monday.

Mr. Zoller announced that pairings for play in the tournament would be made on July 4.

Other events to be staged at the park are being planned and should be completed by the first of next week. Henry Van Hettinga has been named to take charge of a children's program. The Muscatine Concert band will furnish entertainment both in the afternoon and evening.

Following the park program, interest will center on the river events where a Venetian parade, of which Henry Welch, head of the Muscatine Power Boat club, is in charge, will be the highlight.

Boat Races Too
Plans for boat races and surfboard riding in the afternoon are under way with Bob Leu and Harry Timm in charge. It is anticipated by Mr. Timm to get several surfboarders to come here and race. Surfboarding has become a popular sport in Muscatine the past few years, many good riders having been seen in the harbor.

Besides the river sports, kittenball tournament and several of the other minor events, the annual Fourth of July golf finals will be held at the Geneva Golf and Country club.

George Zoller, George Meerdink, L. R. McKee, F. M. Myers, Ray Dunker, Rudy Bosten, Glen Barnard and Joe Roth met in a conference this morning to discuss the financial problem. A drive for funds will begin Monday.

Tyrus Cobb Plans On Making Frisco Permanent Address

SAN FRANCISCO.—(INS)—Tyrus Raymond Cobb, the old "Georgia Peach" and one of baseball's most noted figures, was in San Francisco today prepared to make the city by the Golden Gate, his permanent address.

Whether or not Tyrus will dabble in local baseball is a moot question which he refused to answer directly.

Britain's Hopes for 'Open' Set on Young Henry Cotton

TOLEDO, Ohio.—(INS)—Great Britain apparently is setting its hopes for capturing the American Open Golf Championship on the youthful Henry Cotton, although a dozen of Britain's crack golfers will wend their way around the picturesque but difficult Inverness Course, July 2, 3 and 4.

Great Britain made its first successful assault on the citadels of American golf in 1900 when Harry Vardon, then a comparatively young man, led his fellow countrymen, James Taylor, over the final green at Wheaton by one stroke.

In the 16 preceding years such foreign-born professionals as Willie Rynn, Jim Foulis, Freddy Herd, Willie and Alex Smith and Willie Anderson had dominated open golf in this country, but no British golfer had been able to scale the heights.

Vardon and Ted Ray returned to this country in 1913 with high hopes, but they returned to Scotland, the roundly whipped as Francis Olmstead, a 19-year-old ex-caddy, stepped out of his own backyard to repulse the attack of the golfing giants at Brookline.

The English did not appear formidable again until the open at Inverness in 1920 when Ray and Vardon gained vindication in a tournament that still lives in the minds of every American student of the game.

Figures announced here reveal that the stadium will have a seating capacity of 110,000 for boxing matches, 75,000 for baseball and some 80,000 for football.

On the lower deck there are to be 51 rows containing 37,896 places, and on the upper deck are 29,913 seats in 24 rows. Bleachers will hold approximately 10,913 persons and accommodations in the press box are arranged to hold 60 persons.

The surface covered by the structure is 275,000 square feet, and the field for athletic contests is 183,000 square feet.

Mulrhead had his 400 bunkers, Sandwich its skyscraper sand hills but Carnoustie, British open battle ground, has just 300 traps.

STADIUM WILL SEAT 110,000

New Structure to Be Completed in Time For Title Bout

CLEVELAND.—(INS)—This city's new municipal stadium, which will be completed in time for the heavyweight title fight of Max Baer, German champion, and W. L. "Young" Strickling, Georgia contender, ranks near the top with other arenas of the same kind in the nation.

Figures announced here reveal that the stadium will have a seating capacity of 110,000 for boxing matches, 75,000 for baseball and some 80,000 for football.

On the lower deck there are to be 51 rows containing 37,896 places, and on the upper deck are 29,913 seats in 24 rows. Bleachers will hold approximately 10,913 persons and accommodations in the press box are arranged to hold 60 persons.

300 TRAPS
Mulrhead had his 400 bunkers, Sandwich its skyscraper sand hills but Carnoustie, British open battle ground, has just 300 traps.

The American League of which William Harridge recently was chosen president is rated by its magazines as a $12,000,000 business. Harridge is its third president. He never played ball.

YALE DEFEATS PRINCETON IN GOLF PLAYOFF

Contest Is Prelude to Tournament Which Starts Monday

CHICAGO.—(INS)—As a prelude to the National Intercollegiate golf tournament which starts Monday at Olympic fields Yale Saturday defeated Princeton 6 to 3 in a playoff for the Eastern Intercollegiate league championship.

Each team having won three times previously the contest was more or less of a "rubber." Scoring was generally high due to a hot sun and a course which none had played over before.

A field of 126 will compete. Practically all of the well known universities and colleges throughout the country are to be represented.

Among the schools sending golfers to the meet are Pittsburgh, Colgate, Georgia Tech, Harvard, Princeton, Yale, Georgetown, Chicago, Penn. Brown, Northwestern, Vanderbilt, Purdue, Michigan, and Southern California.

Qualifying rounds are to be run off Monday and Tuesday, after which the match play will start. The tourney calls for two eighteen hole rounds Wednesday and 36 hole grinds the remaining three days of the meet.

RING VERDICTS

At Atlantic City, N. J.—Midget Wolgast, of Philadelphia, recognized as flyweight champion in New York, defeated Lew Franklin, New York (10).

At Chicago — Ray Trumble, Rockford, Ill., middleweight, won from Chas. Leach, Gary, Ind. (8).

At San Francisco — Battling Dozier, negro welter, drew with Gaston Le Cadre of France, (10). Lee damage of Los Angeles, decried Pete Cerkan, northwest light heavy, (6).

Nick Kiklerion, Armenian light heavyweight, decisioned Bud Strahan of Salt Lake City in a hot battle, (4).

INVESTOR'S NOTICE!

An Opportunity for Those with Foresight and Vision, Who Are Interested in an Opportunity That Seldom Presents Itself

In these times of depression, and upsetting of many kinds of investments, the public, especially the conservative investor, in looking for an opportunity to invest in something with a future. A careful reading of this advertisement will explain an unusual opportunity.

This paper, last summer, incorporated an Iowa company known as the Progressive Publishing Company, for $150,000. Stock was sold to nearly 1100 men and women of the Midwest. Many parents purchased stock in the name of their children, feeling that the future would pay handsome dividends to them. Mr. Norman Baker, a conservative investor, who has proven his wisdom by the investment he has made, became a heavy stockholder. No one man or woman holds control.

A valuable site was purchased for $15,250, on the main thoroughfare of Muscatine, a beautiful building was erected. Three stories high, built of brick, tile, concrete and steel. It stands today as one of the most beautiful, best constructed buildings in Muscatine. The value of the equity today, will exceed $100,000.

Less than $100,000 in stock was sold, the board of directors wishing to reserve over $50,000 for treasury stock. Now we are going to expand—our circulation has grown upwards to over 7000 bonafide paid subscriptions, and growing daily. It is a record few, if any papers in America can boast of. This paper bought the site, built the building, equipped it with fine machinery, and within 6 months has grown to over 7000 subscriptions which shows the crying need for a paper like the Midwest Free Press.

15,000 shares of common stock, all non-accessible, were issued at ONLY $10.00 per share. It is now decided that more of the treasury stock will be sold in small lots to those interested in an unusual investment with community interest. Our representative will call and explain our offer or you can send your order direct to this office by mailing in the coupon. State number of shares wanted, at $10.00 each, and write name plainly. Stock certificates will be mailed at once. WATCH US GROW, don't wait until this is all sold—place your order now.

The Business Accelerator--

READ!

Dr. Julius Klein,
Assistant Secretary of Commerce, says:—

"Judiciously planned advertising is one of the most effective instruments with which to combat commercial depression. It is a business accelerator of proved power. It keeps goods moving, it inspires confidence, it creates good will. But, in order to accomplish the beneficent results, advertising must strike the public consciousness unremittently. Any abrupt halt . . . any extended absence of the advertiser's message . . . may be disastrous.

I am profoundly convinced, therefore, that any reduction of advertising in times of depression, with the idea of cutting down expense, is a mistaken and short-sighted policy, likely to defeat its ostensible purpose."

(We extend an invitation to the business men of Muscatine to call and take advantage of our special advertising material expertly planned for all lines of business.)

Are These Times a New Order of Things?

It has been almost two years since the value of securities and commodities started a decline which has not even now shown definite signs of halting. During this period, prices have declined to a point where production costs are scarcely covered and almost all lines of endeavor have suffered heavy or complete losses. It would appear that no one has escaped. It has reached not only the farm, but the factory and laborer as well.

It is a well known fact, but it will bear repeating here, that such a condition cannot continue indefinitely without a complete collapse of all our business and governmental institutions. Our country is less than two centuries old, in fact, we are a young nation, and with our wonderful natural resources and with the courage and determination of our people, No Such Thing Will Occur. Certainly, now it is safe to judge the future by the past; if that be true, we are approaching the end of this slump. Past depressions, have, in but a few cases, lasted longer than two years. Complete Recovery Has Always Been the Rule and This Will Be No Exception. To lose money, of course, is discouraging, however, wealth can be regained, but to lose one's courage, determination and integrity, is much worse, and is despised. This is no time to give up and lose faith in ourselves and our ability to overcome all and every obstacle; on the other hand, we should strengthen our faith, courage and independence by steadfastness of purpose, by seeking only those things in life which help build character, credit and business integrity; hard work courageously applied and directed, better management, sane counsel, helpful co-operation, together with the firm belief that times are to be better will have much to do toward accomplishing that change so much desired.

Probably this part of the country has suffered less than any other section and conditions in this city and community are far better than those existing elsewhere. For this we are truly thankful.

With prices now on many commodities at the lowest level in many years, surely one can buy what is needed with the belief that the purchase truly represents value received and more. Reflect for a Moment at This Time Just How Much the Dollar Will Buy, whether it be groceries, automobiles, clothing, land or what not—Such opportunities are not always present—by buying now you take advantage of the opportunity and at the same time do much to restore prosperity.

Let us all now take a new view of the situation and renew our faith and confidence in ourselves as well as our business and governmental agencies.
